Charleston Is Cut Off From Outside; Relief Is Granted

Charleston, S. C., Aug. 12 (AP)—This history-steeped city counted today considerable property damage but no reported loss of life from a tropical hurricane that struck this section yesterday with a wind velocity as high as 75 miles an hour. It was the worst storm in the coastal city since 1911.

Sweeps Inland

(By The Associated Press)
Atlanta, Aug. 12—Danger from the worst tropical hurricane to strike the south Atlantic coast in recent years passed today, after bringing death to at least eight persons, wrecking property, flooding highways and crippling communications.

The force of the storm spent itself inland, but heavy rains continued over Georgia and South Carolina.

Historic Charleston remained cut off from all communications after amateur radio operators were forced to abandon a station when water flooded a powerhouse. Army officials at Fort Mifflin, Ga., said their radio operators had received no reports of severe casualties in Charleston.

Fort Mifflin gave refuge to some 600 civilians from Sullivan's Island, near Charleston, and most of the residents at other vacation resorts along the Carolina and Georgia coasts moved to points of safety ahead of the wind. Coast Guardsmen and state highway patrolmen raced to warn all persons in exposed areas before the hurricane struck.

Reported by Radio

Six of the deaths were reported by the amateur radio operators before they were forced off the air. They said the six drowned at nearby Folly Beach when their automobile plunged from a flooded highway. A negro woman was killed by broken glass at Savannah and a man died of a heart attack when a tree was blown down at his home.

A considerable section of Charleston was under water four to six feet deep. A number of persons suffered minor injuries from flying debris.

The Atlanta Weather Bureau said Wilmington, N. C., and Charleston, S. C., and Savannah, Ga., were unable to communicate their daily reports.

Winds reached a velocity of 68 miles an hour and some gusts went well over 70 at Savannah.

The dead there were identified as Jesse Wallace, an industrial plant officer, who died of heart failure when a tree crashed into his house, and Annie Wade, a negro woman who was killed on the street by flying debris.

Fire, believed to have been caused by a falling power line, broke out at the huge naval stores terminal, but was brought under control.

Smashes Along Coast

Charleston, S. C., Aug. 12 (AP)—A tropical hurricane, smashing along the Atlantic coast from Savannah, Ga., to Georgetown, S. C., brought death to at least eight persons, wrecked property, flooded highways and left historic Charleston in darkness and without communication with the outside world early today.

A group of amateur radio operators, who had given bits of information out of stricken Charleston during the night, said at 3 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) that water waist deep in a power house had forced them to abandon their station.

They reported in a broadcast over short wave station 4CUS that six persons drowned at nearby Folly Beach when their automobile plunged off a flooded highway.

A number of persons in Charleston, they said, were hurt by flying debris when the storm reached a maximum velocity of 76 miles an hour, and that about one-third of the city of 75,000 population was under water to at least four feet of water.

"It looked like the whole ocean rose up and came into town," one of them said.

68-Mile Wind

A 68-mile wind, the worst to strike in more than 50 years, buffeted Savannah, Ga., to the south, bringing death to at least two persons and causing widespread damage.

DeWitt Hoffman Is Hurt on Sunday Crossing Highway

Ardonia Man, 50, Placed on Danger List; Car's Driver Goes Free After Giving Facts

DeWitt Hoffman, 50, whose farm is about half a mile west of Ardonia on the Ardonia-Modena road was injured when he was struck by a passing car while he was crossing the highway in front of his home.

Joseph Dora, 21, of New York City, driver of the car which struck Hoffman, took the injured man to the office of Dr. Moeller at Highland, who ordered him taken to Vassar Hospital by ambulance. He was found to be suffering from fracture of the lower jaw and lacerations and abrasions about the face and head.

Sergeant Hulise and Trooper Benson of Highland, who investigated the accident, made no arrest after hearing Dora's story. The latter told the officers that as he was driving west on the narrow road Hoffman came across the road from his left and directly into the path of his car. He said that he was unable to avoid hitting the man since there was another car coming from the opposite direction. If he had turned to his right he would have struck a pole.

Hoffman was placed on the danger list at the hospital but at last reports appeared to be coming along all right.

The change in official personnel will be effective September 15 when Miller can be released from his present duties with the Fish and Wildlife Service, United States Department of the Interior.

Three Billions Is Paid Out Social Security Program Five Years Old This Week; Gives Statistical Picture of Vast Operations

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP)—The government's social security program, five years old this week, has distributed $3,000,000,000 to the nation's aged and unemployed workers, and to widows, orphans and the blind.

In advance of its anniversary Wednesday, the social security board drew up a statistical picture of its vast operations to show that some 50,000,000 workers had been enrolled in the program since President Roosevelt signed the act in 1935.

Established after a long study of European experiences, the social security program pursues its benefits through a half dozen outlets which are either exclusive federal enterprises or joint undertakings of national and state.

Its "insurance" benefits for the aged and unemployed are financed by payroll taxes, while direct grants from federal and state treasuries sustain the public assistance features for the young, the old and the helpless in need.

At the top of the program is the old age and survivors insurance system which pays out monthly benefits to workers who retire at

Roosevelt Inspects More Plants

President Visits Naval War College, Torpedo Plant, Training Unit at Newport

Review Is Held

F. D. R. Meets Governor and Senator, Takes Ride

Newport, R. I., Aug. 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt came here today in the midst of the nation's $10,000,000,000 preparedness drive and looked over three more of New England's major defense installations—the Naval War College and torpedo and training stations.

Stopping first at the torpedo plant—one of the world's largest—on Goat Island, the chief executive completed his inspection in a matter of minutes, pausing to look at two ton-and-a-half torpedoes. In an aside, a gob whispered that "they spent all night polishing them."

The noses of the torpedoes—called "fish" in naval parlance—were painted yellow to show they were "duds" and not loaded. Mr. Roosevelt watched two mechanics make adjustments and listened attentively while Captain Thomas Withers, in command of the station, explained the mechanism.

The presidential yacht Potomac had nosed out of an early morning fog and tied up at a pier at the torpedo station.

Mr. Roosevelt was met by Governor William Vanderbilt and Senator Green (D-R. I.), then was piped over the side of the yacht. He stood at attention while a marine bugler and drummer sounded the traditional four ruffles and flourishes as required by naval regulations and etiquette.

Vanderbilt, Green and Withers rode around the island in the presidential car, past ground already broken for new construction.

There are 4,200 employees at the plant—nearly twice as many as 18 months ago—on three round-the-clock shifts.

The station recently was granted a $1,385,000 appropriation for expansion and $750,000 will be used for a new assembly plant. So many orders for torpedoes have piled up that the station lets out some of its work to private industry but most of the secret and complicated parts still are made at Newport.

Riding over to the War College and training station the Chief Executive passed the old frigate Constitution, historic memento of the days of wooden warfare.

Organization Proposed

Colorado Springs, Aug. 12 (AP)—The organization of a neutral non-governmental agency to keep 27 million people in the little countries of Europe from "wholesale starvation, death and disease" was proposed today by Herbert Hoover, chairman of the American relief committee in the World War, said somebody "must raise a voice for food supply during the coming winter."

A. F. of L. Predicts

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP)—A prediction that the defense program would cause within a year the employment of 2,500,000 persons now out of work was made today by the American Federation of Labor.

Business Is Sidetracked

House leaders decided to sidetrack routine business at a moment's notice this week to expedite passage of national guard and excess profits tax legislation. Anxious to catch up with the senate, they hope to debate by Wednesday the bill to authorize President Roosevelt to order the guard and reserve army units into a year's active service.

Fiscal experts have promised that by Thursday they will have ready the excess profits tax legislation, intended to raise $300,000,000 the first year.

Many members predicted that the National Guard bill would be approved quickly. They said that the debate would center largely on a debt moratorium for men who might be called to duty.

Chairman May said that the war department was preparing a long amendment on the subject intended to cover every conceivable situation that might be created by personal mortgages, insurance premiums and the like held by the guardsmen.

Operations Resume

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 12 (AP)—Resumption of normal operations at the Bendix aviation Corporation was ordered today with the announcement of a settlement of a labor dispute which had retarded production of carburetors for commercial and military plane motors.

"A mutually-satisfactory settlement" was announced last night.

Senator Barkley Proposes Listing of All Men From 21 to 44 to Provide Dual Index

Kentuckian Says List Would Give Needed Facts; Opposition Is Expressed

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP)—Annual registration of all men from 21 through 44, to provide an index of the industrial as well as military manpower of the nation, was proposed today by Senator Barkley (D-Ky.) to supplement conscription.

"We ought to have information on the number of men who are available for non-combatant activities, as well as those who might be called for military service," the Democratic floor leader told reporters.

Incorporation of Barkley's suggestion into the pending Burke-Wadsworth bill would entail some changes in the contemplated conscription plan, it was pointed out by Senator Sheppard (D-Tex.), floor manager of the measure.

The bill calls for a single registration to compile the list of men eligible for active training, although the program would remain in effect five years. Any additional registration, Sheppard said, would require new action by congress.

Under the bill as approved by the military committee, only men from 21 through 30 would have to register. Senator Burke (D-Neb.), however, has offered an amendment to increase the bracket from 21 through 44.

Support and Opposition
Barkley announced that he would support Burke's amendment, but Senator Minton of Indiana, the assistant Democratic leader, enlisted among its opponents.

Minton said he thought that the smaller bracket would provide a sufficiently large reservoir of manpower to meet army requirements. For this reason, he said, he could see little benefit in forcing older men to list their names.

Senate debate, resuming this afternoon, is expected to last about 10 days.

The house military committee will reopen its hearings on conscription tomorrow. On Wednesday, Chairman May (D-Ky.) said the committee would hear Secretary Knox of the navy, called at the request of some Republicans who wanted to question his statement on taking office that a land force of 300,000 men was adequate.

May said that four other witnesses whom the committee had decided to hear at the same time could not come. They are former Secretary of War Woodring, former Assistant Secretary Louis Johnson, General John J. Pershing, and General Hugh Johnson.

Test of Powers

The newly-created air defense command, itself an innovation developed from observation of modern military science, began a test of the organization's coordinating powers over defenses against aerial invasion.

The rehearsal for the Aug. 19 opening of a "black" army's mock invasion against the "blue" forces defenses called into play for the first time the civilian air raid warning service in which hundreds of "spotters" telephone directly to command headquarters the number of aircraft.

First Army Gets Problem Designed Against Blitzkrieg

Officers Are Concentrating on Actions of Offense and Against 'Fifth Column' Tactics

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP)—The first army, progressing from small unit movements to large regimental maneuvers, encountered in northern New York's make-believe war today a new training routine designed to counteract "blitzkrieg" tactics.

Displaying recognition of the effectiveness of military methods employed in the present European conflict, commanding officers concentrated on teaching the approximately 90,000 troops new offensive methods and means of defense against "fifth column" procedure.

The new offenses, departing from those taught in previous maneuvers, brought new "streamline" formations designed, the officers said, to strike "swift, hard-hitting blows" at enemy lines and at the same time offer a maximum of protection of vital supply and communications lines.

The first arrest for violation of the dog rabies ordinance in Kingston was made by Dog Warden Andrew Griffin this morning when he placed Benjamin Israel of 526 Broadway under arrest on a charge of allowing his dog to be out on the street without wearing a muzzle.

Later in police court Mr. Israel pleaded guilty to the charge, and said it was the first time the dog had gotten out on the street without a muzzle.

Judge Cahill said as this was the first arrest for a violation of the rabies quarantine, he would suspend sentence, and warned Mr. Israel to be more careful in the future.

Woodstock Resident and Child Injured as Car Strikes Pole, Drops Transformer

Mrs. William West, 34, of Woodstock, and her daughter, Patricia, 7, were injured at 9:30 o'clock this morning when the car Mrs. West was driving along Andrew street got out of control and crashed into an electric light pole in front of the residence of W. W. Brady.

Mrs. West and her daughter were conveyed to the Benedictine Hospital in an ambulance.

At the hospital this afternoon the condition of Mrs. West was reported as satisfactory. The West girl left the hospital after receiving treatment.

Mrs. West complained of a back injury, while the girl was injured about the head when she was thrown against the windshield by the force of the impact.

The electric light pole was moved about 6 inches as the car crashed into it, and the large transformer on the pole was loosened and fell on top of the front of the auto, damaging the left front fender, the lights and the hood, while the radiator was pushed in by the impact.

Mrs. Charles West, who also was in the car, escaped injury.

Motorcycle Officer George Bowers investigated the accident and talked with Mrs. West, who told him she was driving at not over 12 miles an hour when the car suddenly got out of control.

British Merchant Sailors Believe Answer Has Been Found To Threat of Dive Bombers in New Twofold Defense

By ROBERT E. BUNNELLE
On England's Southeast Coast, Aug. 12 (AP)—The men who man the ships which guard and feed Britain believe the British have found or are finding an answer to the dive bomber.

These men see the British reply to the German stukas as twofold:

The barrage balloon being tried out by the shipping convoys to keep the bombers high enough to prevent accurate aim.

A new, multi-barrelled anti-aircraft gun which nails the bombers if they come in low.

This new gun is a pom-pom which fires shells an inch or more in caliber, constructed so delicately they explode at the slightest contact. British who have seen the guns in action praise them highly.

The barrage balloons, among the targets of yesterday's heavy Nazi aerial attack, are said to be a big help in warding off the bombers but to have their drawbacks.

They are vulnerable to the cannon-fire of the German Messerschmitts are a drag on the ships which tow them and thus slow down the convoys, require a certain amount of "babysitting" and expert handling, and are hard to maneuver in the stiff winds which frequently whip over the English channel and the North Sea.

The height at which they are flown depends on the wind currents. The balloonists fly them where they ride most easily and then, when the need arises, let them up to the most effective height, aiming either to get the bombers caught in the balloon cables or to make the planes fly too high to be able to aim their bombs with full effectiveness.

Boasting of the speed and apparent calm with which replacement balloons were sent up under fire and those shot down yesterday, one barrage operator said:

"Yes, we get them from the

Nazi News Agency Says Attack Effects Serious Damage Upon British Coastal Port

Greece Is Accused of Supplying Oil to Britain

(By the Associated Press)

Hitler's aerial armadas, now ready in the opinion of Nazis to deliver a "knockout blow," furiously attacked England's great naval and shipping base at Portsmouth at dawn today against defending British RAF fighting planes and anti-aircraft guns.

DNB, the official German news agency, said that the raids inflicted "new severe blows" and that the battle was still under way.

The Nazi high command asserted 90 British planes were destroyed in yesterday's spectacular air fights, with three others shot down by anti-aircraft fire. Twenty-one German planes were reported missing. The official British score was 60 German planes shot down; and 26 British craft.

More than 100 planes clashed in this morning's first sky battle, staged over the English channel and the hills of the southeast coast.

At least 13 Nazi raiders were reported shot down since Sunday midnight, and a British Air Ministry communiqué said tersely:

"Large scale enemy activity is taking place over a wide area in the channel and Thames estuary." Droning through the sunrise haze at an altitude of 20,000 feet, the Nazi bombers and Messerschmitt fighters were intercepted by British planes. RAF Spitfires knifed down to break up the Messerschmitts, which attempted to keep "flying circle" formations to protect each other.

Flaming Torch

An eye-witness said one Nazi plane "made a flaming torch" as it plunged into the sea.

New international complications developed in southeastern Europe meanwhile as authoritative Fascists in Rome said "serious consequences" would follow the reported beheading of an Albanian minority leader by Greek border raiders.

Italians were described as "enormously irritated."

Fascists also accused Greece of supplying British warships and planes with oil from Greek bases.

In the new raids over Britain today, Nazi warplanes attacked airplane factories, ports and oil depots, the German high command reported.

In London, a spokesman indicated in the absence of official comment that Britain would be averse to a proposal of former President Herbert Hoover that the United States supply food to Holland, Belgium, Poland and Norway.

The spokesman said that Britain would vigorously maintain its blockade against Germany and Nazi-occupied European states, and that food for 18,000,000 non-Germans in the occupied territories depended on "fair distribution by Germany, which has an abundance of supplies."

The German said they destroyed 89 British planes Sunday, practically smashed the Portland base, sank nearly all the ships in Portland harbor, and sank three and damaged four ships in a convoy. Only 17 German planes were lost, the Nazi command said, in this most successful raid on England, while the British fell out of the sky "like shot birds."

The British, unofficially tallying 69 German plane losses, laid official claim to 60—same number they reported the Nazis suffered in Thursday's big fight over Dover—and said 26 British planes were missing.

Warships Damaged

Two British warships were damaged by bomb splinters, the British said, and some naval buildings were hit in Sunday's Portland attacks but they failed to acknowledge hits on military objectives.

Despite the stern Nazi assaults, a German wireless announcer cautioned they were "not to be interpreted as the start of a German attack on Great Britain."

He said they were just "preparation."

Britain, for her part, told of far-reaching raids on Germany and German-occupied Holland and northern France. The wharves of Hamburg, the Wilhelmshaven naval base and factories in many parts of Germany were bombed Saturday, the British said, as were airdromes in Holland and France.

At sea, Britain announced a troop transport, the Mohamed Ali

No Spectacular Increase Is Seen

Modest Gains Expected In Farm Products

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 12—No spectacular increase in the number of fruit and vegetables co-operatives in the northeast is foreseen for the next five or ten years by professor M. P. Rasmussen of the department of agricultural economics at Cornell University.

He points out that relatively few of the country's cooperative associations which market fruits and vegetables are located in the northeast, due to the great abundance of marketing outlets in these states and to the comparative ease with which growers can sell their crops.

"Mass buying of fruit and vegetables both by chain stores and by co-operative groups of private retailers may force growers to work out better methods of collective marketing," he says. "Even from the buyer's viewpoint it seems desirable to have well organized groups of producers, since the mass buyer wants guaranteed volume, unified packaging, grades, and quality."

"Further steps toward co-operative selling both at country and city points would enable growers to use better sales talent than they can provide when they deal individually."

Professor Rasmussen predicts a modest but steady increase in the number and quality of co-operative marketing associations at country shipping points. The chances for success of country auctions for fruit and vegetables seem best, he says, in areas where a large volume of perishable products is available, and where the auctions are accessible to a large number of buyers. Co-operative regional markets are also attracting much interest, he states.

Holstein Cows Lead in State

Outnumber Other Breeds; Importance Decreasing

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 12—Holstein cows outnumber all other breeds combined in New York state, but their importance is decreasing as cows with higher-testing milk have increased.

This was learned by Dr. W. M. Curtiss of the department of agricultural economics at Cornell University in a study of breeds of dairy cows on New York farms. About 60 per cent of the cows reported were Holstein, 20 per cent Guernsey, 8 per cent Jersey, 7 per cent Ayrshire, and the remainder of other breeds.

Holsteins were most prevalent in the northern and central districts, comprising nearly three-fourths of all cows. In the western and southeastern districts, slightly less than one-half of the cows were Holstein, with a higher proportion of Jerseys and Guernseys. Nearly one-third of the cows in western New York, where the herds were small, were Guernseys. In contrast, less than five per cent in northern New York were Guernseys.

Jerseys in Southeast
Jersey cows were most prevalent in southeastern New York where 15 per cent were of this breed. Ayrshires were most prevalent in the northern part of the state.

Even more variation in breeds of cows was noted in individual counties. More than 80 per cent of the cows were reported as Holstein in Lewis, Madison, Fulton, and Tioga counties. Albany and Greene counties reported more than half of their cows as Guernseys. A limited number of farms were reported from Rockland, Nassau, and Suffolk counties, but each showed more than 50 per cent Guernseys. All of the counties in the western district, with the exception of Erie, had a high proportion of Guernseys, but none had more than 50 per cent.

Delaware county reported 27 per cent as Jerseys. The only other counties with more than 15 per cent Jerseys were Essex, Chautauque, Greene, and Suffolk.

Pioneers to Hold Reunion in Month

Infantry Association Plans September Meeting at Hempstead School

The 17th annual reunion of the 51st Pioneer Infantry Association will be held at Hempstead, N. Y., on Sunday, September 8th. The association, which was organized in 1924 in Kingston, N. Y., has met annually since that time and is one of the oldest first world war regimental organizations in existence. The organization is composed of those served with the Tenth N. Y. N. G. as of April, 1917, and those who saw service with the 51st Pioneer Infantry. Due to the ban placed on the use of armories, the business meeting on Sunday morning will be held in the auditorium of the Hempstead High School, where the registration of members will also take place. Following the business session the members will journey to the Elk's club where the annual dinner will be held. At the meeting which will begin at 11 o'clock officers for the year will be elected, selection of the 1941 reunion city and other matters will be brought up for action. The Hempstead reunion committee in charge of John Mack, general chairman, has planned to have entertainment and refreshments on Saturday evening in the hall of Hempstead, Post, No. 390, American Legion, also registration for those who arrive the day before the reunion. Others serving on the reunion committee are: Kenneth W. Cann, secretary; Rudolph Powell, treasurer; Aldrich Van Dohlen, reception; Wallace W. Guest, dinner; Alfred E. Peterson, entertainment; Floyd Weeks, sleeping accommodations; Floyd Weeks, Charles Stevens, William Raynor, registration and Kenneth W. Cann, reunion booklet. The committee is endeavoring to go one better the reunion of the association which was held there some years ago and a large attendance is looked for. Present officers of the association are: president, Arthur Fox, Kingston, N. Y.; 1st vice-president, Marx Brozzio, Hudson, N. Y.; 2nd vice-president, Otto Rauch, Delmar, N. Y.; 3rd vice-president, Walter Morris, Flushing, N. Y.; secretary, Eugene Cornwell, Kingston, N. Y.; treasurer, Peter Keresman, Kingston, N. Y.; chaplain, the Rev. Francis Miller, Coney Island, N. Y.; historian, Daniel Kennedy, Flushing, N. Y.; sergeant-at-arms, Kenneth W. Cann, Hempstead, N. Y.

The Fifty-first Pioneer Infantry was composed of men from the various cities and towns of the Hudson Valley, from New York to Albany, many having left in the draft the latter part of May, 1918, and assigned to the 51st Pioneers. The men were sent to Camp Wadsworth in South Carolina, for intensive training preparatory to overseas service. On July 26, 1918, the regiment sailed from Hoboken on the S. S. Kroonland and landed in Brest, France, on August 6, 1918. They took part in the major operations of the St. Mihiel offensive September 12 and 13, of 1918, and in the Woerpe Sector, September 14 to 25 of the same year. From September 26 to November 11, the day the armistice was signed, they operated between the Meuse and Moselle rivers. Following the signing of the armistice, the regiment was a unit of the Army of Occupation and remained in Germany until May 25, 1919. Part of the regiment came home on the S. S. Wilhelmmina arriving in New York harbor on July 3, 1919, while the other part of the regiment came home on the Mongolia arriving in Boston a few days later, the regiment having embarked from St. Nazaire, France. The outfit saw service in France and Germany for about a year, the individual companies being assigned to various duties incidental to the winning of the World War. Their stay in Germany lasted about six months and during that period they were stationed along the Moselle river from Cochem to Guls, near Coblenz. Because of replacements, the regiment in 1919 was composed of men from coast to coast and the Mexican to the Canadian borders. Company M of this city was one of the units of the regiment while a number who left this city in the draft the latter part of May, 1918, served with Company F, some serving during their entire period of service with that company while several others were transferred to other outfits after having served only a short time with the company. A number of the 51st Pioneer Veterans of this city are making plans to attend the reunion which promises to rank with the best the association has held.

Central India Fighting

Influx of Wild Weed
DELHI.—Thousands of acres of cultivated land in central India are being ruined by a poisonous weed which is to be studied under a two-year plan of research approved by the imperial council of agricultural research.

A substantial sum has been set aside to carry on the work. The weed, known as "Kans," causes enormous damage once it invades a field, and is especially virulent in black cotton soils. It spreads with tremendous rapidity, and it is said that no crop has been found that will grow where it takes root.

'Hell's Half Acre' Wins Post Office, Goes Modern
CASPER, WYO.—"Hell's Half Acre"—that erosion phenomenon so appropriately named by Wyoming's pioneers—has gone modern. One of the Yellowstone highway's most interesting tourist attractions, the "half acre" has obtained a post office.

Located 40 miles west of Casper, the famous landmark in reality is much larger than a half-acre. Pitted by innumerable stalagmite-like pinnacles that survived erosion's deadly effect, the "acre" presents to the visitor hundreds of various colored strata.

Sicily, Italian possession nearest to Malta, is 60 miles distant.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, AUGUST 12, 1940.

The local business men on Dollar Day will provide an opportunity for shrewd buyers to save a considerable amount and no matter what line of merchandise is wanted, it will be found in Kingston in the shops which are participating in the big event.
The progressive merchants of the city have been busy preparing bargains for the thrifty shoppers who will throng the city to participate in the sales event. In order that the shoppers get full measure of service and savings on Dollar Day, many of the merchants will provide additional help so that the many customers can be served without long delays. They will be geared to serve every kind of customer. They will provide precisely what you are looking for.
In practically every line of business, merchants who are participating in Dollar Day will have exceptional bargains. A glance at the offerings of these merchants which appear in the advertising columns of The Freeman in this issue will be proof of the success of the day. In addition advertising circulars, printed by The Freeman Job Department, have been distributed through the agency of the Western Union. These circulars have been sent throughout Ulster county and parts of Delaware and Greene counties, and offer bargains in almost every line of business which no thrifty buyer can well afford to pass by.
For those who come from out of town, it should be remembered that ample parking space for automobiles is provided through the facilities of the John street parking grounds and the location in the rear of Montgomery Ward store which will take care of a great many automobiles.
Kingston extends an invitation to every one to come and participate in this merchandising event.

CANUTE'S NAVY
Gault MacGowan, writing for the North American Newspaper Alliance, says British morale today reminds him of the attitude of Joe Louis just after an impudent challenger has made him blink for a minute. It's a shock to Joe, but it's disastrous to the challenger, for Joe doesn't make any more mistakes or permit any more openings for the other fellow.
MacGowan reports the British as not only doing all the obvious things to protect their shores and skies and inland areas from all the known possible lines of attack, but of preparing for the unknown. Marshes and tiny streams and charming little lakes usually the residence of fish, ducks and swans and enjoyed by English nature lovers are now patrolled by watchful Britons. "King Canute's Navy," as these guards call themselves, is on the alert for possible landing of flying boats or parachutists.
It isn't as romantic as it sounds. It is all in deadly earnest, and the bombs or fighters, if they come, will replace beauty with ugliness and horror. And it is clear that British thought and effort are necessarily diverted far from normal living. Nevertheless, it is stirring evidence that the people of those islands and their kinsmen from the outposts of empire, believe their way of life and their independence are worth sacrifice and worth fighting for.

MOTHER RELAXES
Oregon claims to lead the world in a revolutionary scheme to give Mother a good rest. This is done in wooded vacation camps operated by Oregon State College. Some folks may consider it a queer and subversive form of collegiate activity, but it seems to be succeeding. There are now 17 of the state's 36 counties participating, and the movement spreads every year.
The camp life costs Mother a dollar a day. Only women are allowed in the sacred groves. And Mother is practically compelled to rest. The only thing she is allowed to do for herself is to make her own bed, and it's against the law to do a lick of work for anybody else. Cooks and dishwashers are provided by home economic experts. Husbands and children "can't get within miles." Mother can eat and sleep and do anything she wants to, when she wants to, with but one ironclad reservation. She can't have any home work around.

So the Mothers, singly or in happy droves, walk and loaf and swim and sing around campfires and study Nature and attend craft classes and have a wonderful time. And much benefit, no doubt, is reaped subsequently by the rest of the family.
HAY FEVER RELIEF
More ragweed than usual in the middle west is the sad prognostication of Ohio's state health director. There are now, however, various forms of relief.
If the hay fever sufferer has money enough and time enough off to go away, he can escape by going to a place where there isn't any ragweed. Or he can have his home air-conditioned. Or he can wear an air filter which is a nuisance but does help some.
A simple method of air conditioning for sleep is recommended. Close bedroom doors and windows, put a tubful of ice in the center of the floor. This keeps out the pollen, gives the air coolness and enough moisture for sleep.
And sleep, says the health director, is essential. Those who do not sleep get worse and worse. If they can keep their resistance up, they suffer less.
It's a miserable disease, adding much to the sum of human misery and causing losses of millions of dollars in decreased efficiency and lost time. It should be taken seriously by its sufferers and those around them. Every possible ameliorating means should be made use of.
America hasn't enough oil to pour on all the troubled waters.

PREVENTING, CURING PAINFUL FEET
I often write about the feet because they have as much to do with earning a living or getting happiness out of life as do our heads. A pair of feet free from strain, corns, bunions, hammer toes, is a real asset to health and happiness, just as painful feet can be a real liability.
While most cases of painful feet are due to the shoe worn, it is not the fault of the shoes but in the choosing and fitting of the shoes. Today, shoe manufacturers, while striving to keep shoes attractive in appearance, are also striving to make their shoes give the necessary support and comfort. More than proper shoes are needed where there are definite abnormalities of the feet.
Dr. W. S. Creer in speaking of common foot ailments in the British Medical Journal, states that he considers the ideal shoes (a) grip heel firmly, (b) grip instep firmly, (c) the front part of the shoe must fit the foot giving toes plenty of room to move, and (d) the heel, if shoe is worn outdoors or at play or work, must not be higher than 1 to 1 1/2 inches.
About 75 per cent of cases of foot trouble is in women between ages of 25 to 55 who have to be on their feet a great deal of the time. Dr. Geo. W. Armstrong, in the Canadian Medical Association Journal, outlines the usual symptoms found, (a) pain in big toe and joint of big toe, (b) pain beneath the ball of the foot with burning of the toes with pain in calves, later in thighs and finally in small of back.
For immediate treatment and relief of pain, soaking the feet in hot water, a teaspoon of salt to the pint of water, for fifteen minutes daily, is prescribed.
The treatment to give permanent relief is wearing the proper shoes. These shoes should be worn at work or play, an Oxford with a heel of medium height (one inch) and flexible arch, long and wide about to fit the foot. The feet should be soaked in the hot salt water for half an hour, twice a day. When corns are present, a pad of white felt is placed around but not over the corn. The soaking in the salt water loosens the corns so that they can be lifted with finger or thumbnail. Having two pairs of these shoes enables one pair to dry out before they are worn again.
For evening and dress wear, Dr. Armstrong admits that women should wear dress shoes to keep up their morale.
Health Booklets
Ten health booklets by Dr. Barton are available to readers who send ten cents for each booklet desired to The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. By JOHN SELBY
"Such Was Saratoga," by Hugh Bradley
Try as you will, you cannot kill the fascination that sin and gaudy living hold for a certain section of the public, particularly when displayed within the covers of a book. Herbert Asbury has made quite a bit of money from rewriting the record of the underworlds of various cities, and still is at it. He has a worthy competitor in Hugh Bradley.
Bradley's contribution to the cause is a book called "Such Was Saratoga." In it he retells the long and garish history of Saratoga Springs, which Godey's Ladies' Book ranked in its day with Newport as the Sodom and Gomorrah of the United States, and which still is the seat of one of the more important race tracks of America, although its place as summer hot spot to the socially elect has long since been lost. There once was a day when a man (or woman) had either to be dressed in the precise costume decreed by fashion, or in some fancy get-up such as Berry Wall or Bet-a-Million Gates affected, to appear on Saratoga's Broadway. Now you may appear with no shirt at all if you please.
Mr. Bradley describes in detail the process by which the enormous hotels of Saratoga grew. One or two are still standing, like petrified grandmothers out of a forgotten era. He tells about some of the estates and some of the doings therein—such as Spencer Trask's famous crusade against gambling which failed so predictably. The track gets much attention, and even the healing springs are mentioned.
But it is the "fast" life of Saratoga which furnishes most of Mr. Bradley's copy, and this he does better by than some other historians one could mention. John Morrissey, who in Civil War times opened the famous track and also one of the world's most famous gambling houses, is perhaps the chief character and Mr. Bradley gives names, dates and minute detail all through his history. So with Richard Canfield, who in due time bought over Morrissey's "Club House," and made it one of the world's most astounding "hells," whose limit was higher Vital Question Is: Are Americans Getting Truth About Their Defense Program, or Being Fed False Security?

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington, Aug. 12—Are the American people getting the truth about their defense program or are they being misled and lulled into false security as were the people of France and Britain prior to and since the outbreak of the present war?
This question is asked not merely because millions of American boys are shortly to be asked to leave their jobs and their homes to begin training for war—long before the equipment for their use will be ready—but because if American interests are in danger of attack in the next twelve months when the loss of time, even days or weeks, now is important.
On Thursday night of last week, the Roosevelt administration arranged a propaganda broadcast over four major networks of radio. Unlike any previous broadcast, all the members of the national defense advisory commission and four radio commentators engaged in what may be called a multiple interview. The public may have thought the questions and answers were spontaneous, but actually both were written out in advance as often happens on radio.
What the public doesn't know, moreover, is that the four radio commentators wrote out many questions, but the publicity department of the defense commission chose what it wanted to answer. The result was an impression that all is going well on our defense program when such is not the case. Here is an extract from the radio interview.
"Is it true that not a single combat plane has been contracted for out of money appropriated by congress up to August 1st?"
"No," replied Mr. Knudsen, "the navy, for example, contracted for $7,000,000 worth of combat planes in July. Take the money appropriated by congress thus far for the defense program. They cover about 4,200 odd airplanes. Money in the defense appropriation bill before congress will add 14,000 more planes to the total. We cannot make complete plans and arrange final details with the manufacturers until we know that the appropriations are passed. We won't know that definitely until the congress passes the bill. However, we have a contract from the principal aircraft manufacturers complete estimates on the plant necessary for the whole program. I would like to add that the money available to us on July 1, five weeks ago contracts have already been awarded for 45 per cent of the entire army funds and 75 per cent of the navy's funds."
Now, anyone listening to the foregoing would not realize that contracts "awarded" do not mean contracts "signed" or in process of being fulfilled anymore than the propaganda phrase "contracts cleared," which has been used by official Washington in recent weeks, means any more than merely being filed with various government agencies which must pass upon them.
The truth of the progress of airplane production was known to the secretary of war last Thursday night because he told a congressional committee about it the very next morning, Friday, but nobody in the administration thought of asking the secretary of war to participate in the broadcast or to use the information which he gave to the House ways and means committee and Senate finance committee. Here is what Henry

Stimson, secretary of war, in a carefully prepared statement, testified on Friday, August 9:
"In other words, Congress made available to the army during the month of June approximately $400,000,000 for airplanes, engines and accessories. Yet, today, almost seven weeks later, we have been able to sign contracts for the construction of but 33 planes of the 4,000 or more for which these appropriations were made."
Mr. Stimson. It will be noted, used the word "sign" instead of "awarded" or "cleared." This means that the manufacturer had had to agree to something offered him by the government. The secretary exonerated the army, the defense commission, the representatives of industry, from any blame, but said the fact was the "entire program of airplane construction is so large" that it involves the construction of new plants. He then added:
"Risks are inherent in any business enterprise. Industry may be expected to undertake normal risks. But the risk to industry of undertaking at the request of the government, to expand at its own expense its plant capacity and of then being left, upon sudden cessation of the emergency, with these expended facilities useless, is one that is entitled to special consideration. Under these circumstances the uncertainty of future taxation affected by this expanded construction not only fails to give the special consideration mentioned above, but penalizes the situation."
"It is this element of uncertainty in respect to the industry's right quickly to amortize its investments in expanded construction, and also the uncertainty as to the amount and character of taxation which will be levied during the period of the contract, which have chiefly prevented the execution of these contracts."
Who delayed the passage of a resolution to permit amortization of capital by new industries engaged in defense work? It could have been put through overnight if the Democratic party's leaders in congress and the President had agreed. Instead for reasons as yet unexplained, the uncertainty of future taxation, the President insisted that the amortization problem must wait for the enactment of an excess profits tax law.
Now when such a bill is ready it is to be jammed through congress, using the great need for settling the question of amortization as the excuse for haste. Excess profits taxes constitute a violent change in the fiscal operations of American business, and especially so now that nearly seven months of the business year have passed without a chance to plan for such taxes. But when a President is running for a third term, politics must be considered. Judging by the tactics of various administration officials, fear that some businesses may be accidentally deeper than fear of Hitler. That's the reasoning induced by a political campaign.
Politics which ruined the preparedness program of France and England is delaying America's defense program and has already robbed the American people of seven weeks of precious time, but not a hint of this or of the startling truth in the secretary of war's factual statement came over the radio last Thursday night in the biggest propaganda broadcast yet staged by the Roosevelt administration. Casual Slaughterers

By VIRGINIA HANSON

YESTERDAY, Kay is knocked unconscious and wakes in the hospital to find Adam by her side. He swears he will never leave her again. Kay learns that Sandra's black eye was achieved by a copper penny bound on with a cloth soaked in vinegar.

Chapter 42

Visitors

I WOKE about the middle of the afternoon feeling as if my head were a vast unfinished building from which a thousand hammering workmen had just taken their unannounced departure. I stirred a little on my pillow. The head was sore, definitely. But that heavenly vacancy was reassuring.

Mimi and Julia arrived about four bearing flowers and a basket of fruit that should have gone up the gangplank of the Normandie. I wondered if it was for ammunition.

"I'm not proud of myself," Julia said abruptly. She looked as if she had not slept, but her smudged eyes shone like the ones in her mother's picture. "I never dreamed you'd go back to the club. I was so wrapped up in myself I couldn't spare a thought for how you must feel. And I owe you everything." A tear overflowed one eye and she dashed it impatiently away. "Jeff told me the whole thing. I'm so happy!" Her voice broke, so she tried again. "I'm so happy."

Her face screwed up and a Niagara of tears cascaded down her cheeks.

"Oh hell!" she muttered. "I'll wait in the car."

Mopping her face, she ducked out of the room.

I looked desperately to the four corners of the room, hoping that someone—nurse, doctor—anyone, would save me from this moment alone with Mimi. It wasn't fair, after last night's shock. I ought to be protected from this sort of thing.

But no one came; and presently, when she had finished arranging a vase of flowers and brought it to the bedside table, I had to face her.

I was going to ask her to forgive me, but what I saw stopped me. Her eyes looked dazed, and she was all warm and light as if the sun were shining on her. She set the vase of flowers down and took my hand. She felt vibrant—so full of happiness that she was radio-active with it.

"Kay, I was wrong about Dan," she said in a hushed, marveling voice. "Last night I found I could tell him everything. It must have been talking to you had made it easier. And, Kay, he was wonderful, even when I confessed how jealous I've been. He said it was all his fault, and he told me something he would never mention before. About how he felt when his first wife died—how he blamed himself, and swore he would never marry again. But I believed him; and he loved me—I believe that now. Only—he couldn't forget that he was responsible for the death of Julia's mother. At least that's the way he looks at it. And he couldn't bear the thought of anything happening to me. Can you understand what a difference it makes, knowing that?"

I made some meaningless answer which I'm sure she did not hear. She was as unapproachable as a valuable pearl wrapped around with cotton wool. I was glad for her, but I envied her a little.

After she had gone I thought about Colonel Pennant with gratitude and increased respect. It had never occurred to me that he would not give me away. The more I pondered the more my admiration grew. That man would be Chief of Staff someday. He could take it as well as dish it out!

G-Man

AND then I thought—no one's telling me what happened last night. They think I'm not well enough to know. That means it's bad. Maybe someone else got hurt; maybe the murderer got away after all, got away with the manuscript and its copy secret. Maybe—maybe they caught the murderer and when I find out it's going to hurt.

I had a vision then of Gerald's eyes, no longer warm and friendly, or cold and alert; but beaten, terror ridden. A horrible vision. My heart rebelled against it. Whatever he had done I hoped they had not caught him. If they had—well, I didn't want to know it. I wouldn't ask—I wouldn't listen.

The nurse came in, smirking a little.

"A gentleman to see you," she said brightly. She wasn't a bad-looking girl, and I noticed she spent more time straightening her own hair and cap than she did in making me presentable. But I didn't care. It would only be the colonel or Jeff or the chaplain. Or Adam. And he had already seen me at my worst.

But it wasn't any of them. I stared at the vision in the doorway, and my first reaction was one of tremendous relief.

"Then they didn't catch you!" I exclaimed, and stopped, horrified at what I had said. I should have been frightened, too, but I wasn't. There was something reassuring about those fringed gray eyes. They stared at me blankly for a moment. Then he came over to the bed and looked down at me.

"What did you say?" he asked grimly. But he didn't wait for me to think up an answer. "So that's why I couldn't keep a finger on you—Look here, young lady, if you go around accusing people so freely I don't wonder you get yourself strangled and battered."

"Hush!" I interrupted desperately. "I'd forgotten about that. I mean, I hadn't thought about you in connection with it. I-I beg your pardon. I went on inadequately. You wouldn't have done that—"

The more I talked the more floored I felt. I was not exactly making myself clear. But I saw a sort of grim amusement in Gerald's eyes.

"You mean I might kill someone but I would never batter a lady's head on the floor," he interpreted. "Well, that's not a bad character analysis. I admit I've never done the latter."

The nurse tittered. He turned and gave her a very fishy look. The missing monocle was practically visible for a moment. To my immense satisfaction she appeared to recall that she had other duties and withdrew.

And then the implication of what he had just said made its way to my blunted understanding. I looked into his eyes and saw the cold steel there, but I was not afraid. In that instant of revelation I saw that he could be pitiless but not unprincipled; that he could be ruthless, but never in the service of himself.

"You must think I'm a fool," I said, feeling my face grow hot. "You're—what are you? Intelligence?"

"Department of Justice. I thought you knew, of course. I'm the one who's a fool. I took it for granted, that night at Fieldstone Inn, when you made veiled references to my masquerade, that Adam had told you before he left. That was why he felt safe to go, of course. He thought I'd be able to look after you. I can't say I'm very proud of myself—"

The Randal Case

"YOU mean Adam knew, all along?" I demanded indignantly.

"Not at first. I found out he's only been here since July, so I told him the night we found Dan. No one else knew, not even Colonel Pennant, until after Sandra was killed. He asked for a federal man to investigate, and as I was already here, I identified myself. I came originally for quite another purpose. Suppose I tell you a story."

He drew up a chair, offered me a cigarette, which I declined to chance, and sitting with the easy poise of a man who is never completely off guard, began to talk.

"You already know parts of the story. You read about it in the newspapers, and Adam says he discussed it with you at the beach party. I'll begin at the beginning and tell you what the papers never knew."

In June the Randal child was stolen—a little golden-haired girl, the only grandchild of a man who, in his lifetime, has made many millions and many enemies. I was one of the operatives who worked on the case. Disguised as the Randal butler—an old Cockney who has been with them for thirty-five years—I delivered the ransom in person a few hours before the child was returned.

I met the kidnaper, talked to him in the dark of a deserted side road about twenty miles from here. I didn't hear his voice—he spoke only in whispers. I dared not kill him, but I had to do it. But I did take a dreadful chance. I flashed a light in his face.

"You might have been killed!" I protested.

"He wasn't likely to risk a shot—and remember, I was a bent old man. No, the chance I took was in risking the child's life. I gambled on his being masked, which he proved to be. He must have felt perfectly safe. Until long afterward, when he remembered his instinctive gesture of self-protection. He put out his hand to cover the beam of light, and his hands were bare. I had wiped the flashlight clean. He left a beautiful set of prints."

"That was clever!"

"But useless. The fingerprints were not on file. He took the ransom and the child was returned unharmed. And somehow he gave us the slip. So we had to begin again."

"But what did you have to go on?"

"About what we usually have—the ransom note, the numbers of the bills and the victim's own story. As soon as the little girl was over her fright I made friends with her and got her to tell me everything she could remember. It was uphill work. She's only five. She may have been kept drugged a good bit of the time, and at no time could she see very well. I got to the bottom of that before I was through, but in the meantime she remembered one thing that was to be our only real clue. She said that where they kept her, somebody blew a horn."

AMERICA To me America is definitely more than an aggregate of 130,000,000 people To me America is all that the submerged races of the world wish to be and cannot To me America is the concrete realization of what the ages have hoped for and labored for AMERICA is a definition—it is a creed—it is a challenge.

God built a continent of glory and filled it with treasures untold. He carpeted it with soft rolling prairies and pillared it with thundering mountains. He studded it with soft flowing fountains and traced it with long winding streams. He graced it with deep shadowed forests and filled them with song.

Then he called unto a thousand peoples and summoned the bravest among them. They came from the ends of the earth, each bearing a gift and a hope. The glory of adventure was in their eyes and the glory of hope within their souls. And out of the labor of men and the bounty of earth, out of the prayers of men and the hopes of the world, God fashioned a nation in love, blessed it with a purpose sublime, and called it "America!"

But he didn't fool dad: Father—Did I hear the clock strike 3 when you came home last night?

Junior—Yes, Dad. It was going to strike 11, but I stopped it so it wouldn't wake you up.

Most everybody wishes everybody else well so long as their well-being does not adversely affect the well-being of the wisher.

Junior—There was a burglar in our house last night.

Teacher—And what did your father do under those circumstances?

Junior—He wasn't under the circumstances—he was under the bed.

Dinner—Waiter, I've been sitting here drinking cocktails for three hours. Bring me something to sober me up.

Waiter—Yes, sir, I have your bill right here.

Some folks are so afraid of work they wear themselves out trying to keep away from it.

Shoe-Store Manager (snapping)—What's the matter, Jenkins? Can't you serve this customer?

Jenkins—No, sir. He's trying to find two shoes which squeak in the same key.

Two men were digging an air-raid shelter, but the crisis passed, so they decided to fill up the trench. They did so, and were dismayed to find a great heap of earth left over. "I told you so," said the first man. "I said all along we should have dug the hole deeper."

Visitor—Your adventures are thrilling. Have you ever seen a sea serpent?

Old Salt—Not since I signed the pledge to refrain from intoxicants, miss.

Relaxation!! I have been dropped by high brow friends.

But I am glad, you see. The strain of trying to keep up was almost killing me.

Store Owner—What did that customer say when he refused to buy that suitcase?

Son—He said when he bought a bag he wanted to see some cowhide in it.

Store Owner—So what does he take us for—magicians?

Be Beautiful at 40 By Being Well Groomed

If a woman is not beautiful at 40, it's her own fault, says Delores McCarty, Williams county home demonstration agent, who explains that being beautiful is just a matter of being well groomed. Those who radiate charm, health, and attractiveness, appear beautiful because they spend some time each day keeping that way.

The underlying principles of good grooming are a clean, healthy body; good posture; clean, well-brushed and becomingly arranged hair; teeth that give evidence of daily care and regular dental attention; well-cared for hands and nails; and carefully brushed and pressed clothing.

The Williams county home agent says cosmetics when properly used are an asset. Their purpose is to improve appearance, and not to give a painted or unnatural effect. When buying cosmetics, the skin color should be studied carefully so that harmonizing shades of cosmetics will be selected.

Mirrors and scales are women's best friends because they can be depended upon for an honest picture and an unbiased criticism. Mirrors at all times tell mildly how she appears to others, and scales are not at all backward in telling correct weight. Miss McCarty says weight should be watched carefully, but should not become an obsession.

Brushes are important to good grooming. There are complexion brushes, bath brushes, eyebrow and lash brushes, hair brushes, shoe brushes, and clothes brushes. A well-groomed appearance is often ruined because clothes need brushing or because shoes need care. Brushing and polishing add to the appearance and prolong the life of shoes.

Nothing enhances personality more than a neat and trim appearance from head to foot. Good grooming involves desire, determination, time, energy, and perseverance, but it also is an investment that pays worthwhile dividends.

Airplanes' Dizzy Spells Are Cured By Application Of Spin Parachutes

AP Feature Service
Houston, Tex.—The spin parachute, sort of an insurance policy for test pilots, has made its appearance at the National Guard airport here.

Taking new ships on trial spins for the army is a rigorous business, so the air corps has developed the spin chute to cut down the turn-over in test pilots.

Folded, the parachute is 5 by 7 inches. When the rip cord is pulled, it blossoms out into a 5-foot circle. It is attached to the tail assembly of the plane.

In case of a flat spin, when the plane leaves a vertical position and starts whirling flatly—like a falling leaf circling down—the pilot finds it almost impossible to bring the ship under control.

This is where the spin chute comes in. The pilot pulls a rip cord, and the chute spreads open, stopping the circular movement of the plane long enough for the propeller blast to hit the control surface of the tail assembly.

After the plane is brought under control, the pilot jerks another rip cord, releasing the parachute from the ship.

Then the pilot lands and wonders why he ever took the job in the first place.

Is Three Other Guys

Indianapolis (P)—The H. McArnold Zyxwythe in the Indianapolis telephone directory really is Robert Howard, newspaper man; Ernest McIlwain of the Social Security office and Kermit Arnold, a publicity man. The three, De Pauw University graduates, room together and chip in on the telephone bill. The "Zyxwythe" doesn't mean anything—but it gives them the last listing in the book so their friends can find their number easily.

Proper Way to Display Flag Shown by Officials

Most Americans, while eager to show their respect for their flag, do not know the code of flag usage. Here are the authoritative answers to questions on display of the Stars and Stripes.

Q.—When is a flag not a flag?
A.—When it is carried by any unmounted unit it is called a color; with any mounted unit, a standard.
Q.—How is the flag displayed in a procession?
A.—With other flags, the United States flag should be either on its own marching right or in front of the center of the line of flags.

Q.—When may the U. S. flag be raised above other flags?
A.—With flags of states, cities or societies, the U. S. flag should be at center or highest point of group. When displayed with flags of other nations all should be flown from staffs of the same height, in time of peace.

Q.—May the flag be used for drapery?
A.—No, bunting is accepted for drapery, but not the flag itself.
Q.—How should the flag be suspended over a street?

A.—Vertically, with the union (constellation of stars) to the north in an east-west street, to the east in a north-south street.

Q.—How is the flag hoisted to half-staff?
A.—It must first be hoisted to the peak, then lowered to half-staff. This procedure applies to final lowering, at sunset, too. On Memorial day the flag remains at half-staff until noon, then is hoisted to the peak.

Q.—Does the flag ever dip to any persons or thing?
A.—No, and it is never displayed union-down, except as a distress signal.

Q.—How is the flag displayed on a vehicle?
A.—It must be affixed to a staff not draped on the vehicle itself.
Q.—Can the flag itself be used as a portion of a uniform?

A.—No, and it cannot be used on cushions, paper napkins, etc., is never used for advertising, and is never lettered upon.

Q.—Can school children be legally required to salute the flag?
A.—Yes, according to an 8 to 1 decision of the Supreme court.

Q.—May persons simply stand at attention when the flag passes?
A.—Yes, except when they are in uniform, when they must give the correct salute.

Q.—How is the U. S. flag correctly displayed with one other flag?
A.—The U. S. flag should be on its own right, and if staffs are crossed the flags staff should be in front of other staff.

Woman Has Contract With U. S. for Chrome

But 28 years old, and she has a contract with the U. S. government to supply it with $843,600 worth of chrome. She is Mrs. William Moroney of Alaska.

Mrs. Moroney has title to a huge chrome mine on the Kenai peninsula, Alaska, near Seldovia. She has chrome mines in northern California. She had another chrome mine in California.

Eight years ago Mrs. Moroney, then Dorothea Reday, was a $135 a month stenographer with the now defunct National Recovery administration. She was interested in chrome, because her late father, Dr. John F. Reddy of Medford, Ore., had supplied the government with some amount of chrome during the closing days of the World war. The government hadn't paid him.

Miss Reddy started a one-woman fight against the federal government for the unpaid bill for chrome mined in southern Oregon in 1918. She won, and an appropriation bill adopted by the present congress carries an item of $3,200 in payment of that claim.

Somewhere Mrs. Moroney got an idea that there might be another war, and it was logical to assume that if there was America would need chrome as it did in the past war. All industrial chrome, necessary in the manufacture of stainless steel and many military alloys, had been coming from Russia, New Caledonia and Turkey.

Dr. Reddy had acquired title to much chrome land, but the documentary evidence could not be located at the time of his death. His daughter, thrown on her own resources, began a search through records, both in the national capital and in Washington and Oregon. She found the necessary papers, but demand for domestic chrome was nil.

Then came international turmoil. Russia stopped shipments of chrome. France drafted manpower in New Caledonia and production there halted. Italy had stopped a chrome shipment of 5,000 tons from Turkey.

Result: Mrs. Moroney has most of the available high-grade chrome on the North American continent, and the federal government readily gave her the huge contract, calling for the delivery of a vast amount of the ore. The contract, broken down, calls for payment at $3 a ton.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)
Rough Justice

Lititz, Pa.—Justice of the Peace Joseph B. Herr feels he has a right to sing the blues.

In a single week he—
Skinned a shin; burned himself, tried to hoist a porch post and it fell on his foot; accidentally panned himself on his roof when a window shut down and a neighbor had to release him; was stung twice by a wasp and barely escaped a third sting by shedding his trousers.

Triple Trouble

Berne, Ind.—Mr. and Mrs. John Doan's five-year-old son, John, Jr., ran into triple trouble.

A cartridge thrown into an open fire struck him on the ear. That treated, Johnnie stumbled on a bumble bee's nest and was stung several times.

Crying and running to his house, he fell head-first into a bucket of paint.

Whoa!

Kansas City—Edgar Davidson, Lawrence, Kas., mistook a street car viaduct for an automobile trafficway. He bounced 275 feet over the ties before realizing his error.

Stretching It

Fullerton, Calif.—The engraver for the new city hall cornerstone has changed his estimate of the cost.

He just learned some of the names he'll have to struggle with—Mayor Hans H. Kohlenberger, Councilman Walter H. Muckenthaler and City Clerk Fred D. Hezmalhalch.

Oops, Excuse Please!

Lincoln, Neb.—Mr. and Mrs. Emil Rieke thought Dan Cupid had gone haywire when they went to First Presbyterian Church to attend a friend's wedding. A strange girl started down the aisle on a strange groom's arm.

Pretending sickness, they got out just in time for the right wedding—in the second Presbyterian Church.

All In Confusion

Wakefield, Neb.—Members of the volunteer fire department spent several jittery days after the fire siren was struck by lightning. It started, stopped, and started again at irregular intervals and each time clerks, plumbers, service station attendants, et al, went into action in case it was the real thing.

Electricians made repairs and no genuine alarms have been received since.

Original Boundary

The original boundary of the Panama Canal Zone followed a series of arcs of circles with a radius of five statute miles from the axis of the canal as it was then planned, according to a study issued by the Columbia University Press.

Subsequently it was replaced by a series of straight lines, except that the zone has been extended to include certain drainage basins and is apparently unique where it now follows a contour line 100 feet above sea level, whereas Gatun lake has a mean level of about 85 feet above the sea, and in another area where it follows the 260-foot contour.

Names No Compliment

Names of cities may sound nice, but they are not very complimentary, the Smithsonian institution has discovered.

For instance the name Manhattan means only Hilly Island. The Indian for Chicago means Land of the Skunk. Kuskuski, Pa., translated, stands for Hog Place and Chattanooga translates into Hawk's Hole.

Milwaukee is an exception. It spells and means Fine Land.

The institution advises chamber of commerce not to dig too deeply into history for the meaning of your city's name.

All Projects to Receive
Inspection for Future
Industrial Value

"All National Youth Administration projects in Ulster and the seven other adjoining counties of Schoharie, Albany, Rensselaer, Greene, Schoharie, Columbia and Montgomery will be thoroughly surveyed during the latter part of August in order to determine and eliminate all projects not offering suitable work experience, especially those which fall into the category of service projects," it was announced today by George W. Watson, director of NYA District No. 2.

Mr. Watson said: "State NYA Director Karl D. Hesley has notified me of the plan for the establishment of projects which will be of a positive value along national defense lines. This means that certain projects now in operation will have to be eliminated."

In the letter of instructions to the eight county supervisors, for carrying out the surveyance of all the NYA projects, Mr. Watson wrote, "We have estimated that approximately 63 per cent of our projects are so-called 'service projects.' These 'service projects' have been created as a courtesy, or service by the NYA to worthwhile government, educational, philanthropic, recreational and institutional organizations. Construction projects compose only 14 per cent, and work centers 23 per cent of the NYA projects."

Mr. Watson continued, "we are faced with the fact that we must develop work center types of projects, or those that can be justified along definite defense lines. It is imperative that we carefully evaluate each and every project and immediately cancel any project which presents any doubt of being unjustifiable. We must give the youths the type of work which will enable them to obtain private employment in the various large companies, factories and machine shops in the district. It should also be kept in mind that our Resident Training Centers provide excellent training for the type of work experience which the youth of this country so definitely need at this time."

In conclusion Mr. Watson said, "As I see our situation at the moment, we have two problems to meet squarely:

1. To continue only fully justifiable projects along defense needs.
2. To make youth acquainted with the opportunities offered by our Resident Training Centers."

Plan State-Wide Sheep Field Day

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 12—A state-wide sheep field day on the Kenwood sheep farm at Springwater, New York, is planned for Thursday, August 22. This 600-acre experimental hill farm, in Ontario and Livingston counties, is operated to learn whether typical hill lands of the state can be used profitably for large-scale production of lambs and wool, instead of going back to trees.

The farm is about five miles north of the village of Springwater and about fifty miles south of Rochester. The field day gives an opportunity for persons interested in sheep production to see this commercial flock of about 500 ewes and their lambs, and to learn how they are cared for and handled.

Visitors may also observe the lambs produced for breeding as well as those sold for slaughter. A study of the grades of wool produced and the types and breeds of rams used in the flock will also be made possible. Many persons, it is said, may wish to inspect the buildings used for housing the sheep in winter and to see the kinds of hay racks, grain troughs, and other equipment on the farm.

The program includes demonstration on the drenching of sheep and lambs, the selection of ewes, rams, and market lambs, and the handling of a large flock of sheep with the aid of dogs. Principal speaker will be Samuel R. Guard, editor of the Breeders' Gazette, of East Aurora, N. Y. Each visitor should bring his lunch and plan to reach the farm by 11 o'clock, daylight time.

Federalburg, Md. (AP)—Epicures will be pleased to learn that this machine age is doing something for the cantaloupe. A melon packer here has installed a waxing machine that dusts and cleans melons, then sprays them with a fine coating of wax. The wax closes pores in the fruit and preserves its delicate flavor for weeks longer than the normal period.

He Wanted Heat

Wichita, Kas. (AP)—Just as the mercury was looking down on things from the tree tops, a fellow walked into district court and filed a $1,000 damage suit because his heating plant didn't work properly last winter.

Doomed Bridge Gets Reprieve
Havre De Grace, Md. (AP)—The fortunes of war have saved the "Gold Mine Bridge." The old double-decker across the Susquehanna to Perryville, Md., has been doomed to demolition when a new $4,000,000 span was opened just upstream. Instead, it's to be saved for its national defense value. But townspeople who fought to keep the old span have won only half their battle. The double-decker was a free bridge, and the new one charges toll. And the old bridge will be closed to traffic.

He Upset a Theory
La Jolla, Calif. (AP)—Contrary to popular belief the hot summer days are not the time when water evaporates most readily, says Dr. H. U. Sverdrup of Scripps Institution of Oceanography. He believes that sea water evaporates fastest in the late fall and early winter because the air must be cooler than the water for evaporation to take place.

Because of the cutting off of all European sources of fine glassware (for years we have gotten our best crystal from Sweden and Czechoslovakia), the art of glass blowing is now undergoing a great impetus in this country. The fine modern American glassware being produced, which is made from American materials and by American craftsmen, ranks in quality and beauty with any ever made.

Hikers' Cabins Soon To Be Built On 2,000-Mile Appalachian Trail

Roanoke, Va. (AP)—Lean-tos and cabins to accommodate hiking enthusiasts soon will be strung the length of the 2,000-mile Appalachian Trail from Maine to Georgia under a plan announced here.

Myron H. Avery of New York, chairman of the Appalachian Trail conference, while here to inspect some relocated links in the trail, said the lean-tos would be constructed about one day's walk apart between the northern terminus at Katahdin, Me., and the southern terminus at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

A smaller number of shelters—cabins with cooking and sleeping equipment—will be constructed. Some already have been built in southern Pennsylvania, Maryland, and northern Virginia.

The conference is an affiliation of about 30 recreational groups with an aggregate memberships of 10,000. It hopes to complete its shelter and lean-to chain to make the trail comparable to those in Europe. Members of affiliated groups keep the trail marked with signs and white tree blazes.

One difficulty has been that bears have torn down wooden signs in the Great Smoky mountains in North Carolina, but plans are to remedy this by using metal signs.

Ministers Learn Newest Methods

Cornell University Is Now Stressing Sociology

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 12—The New York state college of agriculture at Cornell University is now holding the sixteenth annual session of the summer school for town and country ministers. The school is held under the auspices of the department of rural sociology. The state council of churches, the rural institute for religious workers, and various denominations are co-operating in conducting the school.

The session began Monday evening, July 29, with a special lecture by Dr. Ross Sanderson, executive secretary of the Buffalo and Erie county council of churches, and will close August 9 with the awarding of certificates to those who have attended certain sessions and have completed approved projects. Forty ministers and ministers' wives are in attendance and represent the Methodist, Congregational, Baptist, Lutheran and Presbyterian denominations.

The courses which are being studied include: Rural church organization and administration, the larger parish and federated churches, rural sociology, rural leadership, rural recreation, social case work, mental hygiene, economic problems of agriculture, the family, and week-day religious education. Cornell faculty members, who are teaching the courses include Professors W. A. Anderson, Van B. Hart, Mark Entorf, R. A. Polson, Mary Eva Duthie, and Josephine Strode. Professor W. O. Brown of Howard University and Dr. A. H. Rapkin, superintendent of town and country work for the Methodist board of home missions are visiting instructors. The Rev. Hugh J. Williams, secretary-elect of the Vermont state council of churches, and the Rev. Ralph L. Williamson of the rural institute for religious workers are also teaching at the school.

Special activities of the school include field trips to the Homer migrant workers' center and canning plants and to the McLean federated church. Also included are special seminars and a lecture by Dr. Paul Vogt of the United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Shining Fibre Rugs

Often, as summer advances, fibre rugs begin to look drab. To remedy this paint both sides of the rug with clear varnish. It not only brightens the rugs, it prolongs their life, too. Paint one side at a time, allowing two days to elapse between paintings for proper drying.

Debt of Cities Cut Since 1936

Total Is Now 8½ Billions For 310 of Largest Municipalities.

NEW YORK.—A decrease of $88,000,000 in the total gross bonded debt of American cities of more than 30,000 population—excluding New York city—was shown here in a survey which reported on 272 of the nation's largest municipalities.

The National Municipal league, which conducted the survey, said that it had found that there has been a downward trend in the municipal debts of large cities since 1936.

The total 1940 debt for the 310 largest cities in America was estimated at $8,500,000,000.

Cities with the lowest per capita net debt, including school debt and excluding utility debt which usually is self supporting were listed as Milwaukee, Wis., San Francisco and St. Louis, for Group I communities having 500,000 or more population.

Coast Cities Cited.

In Group II classification for cities having a population of between 300,000 and 500,000 persons, Seattle, Wash.; Portland, Ore., and Indianapolis, Ind., were listed as having the lowest per capita net debt.

For cities of between 100,000 and 300,000 population, Spokane, Wash.; Fort Wayne, Ind.; and Tacoma, Wash., were cited for their low debt standing.

Saginaw and Lansing, Mich., and Wheeling, W. Va., were listed in Group IV low debt bracket for cities of 50,000 to 100,000 population, while Danville, Ill.; Arlington, Mass.; and Bay City, Mich.; were low debt communities in the 30,000 to 50,000 population class. Cities with the highest debt listed were:

Group I—Buffalo, Detroit and Philadelphia.

Group II—Newark and Jersey City, N. J., and Rochester, N. Y.

Group III—Yonkers, N. Y.; Camden, N. J.; and Knoxville, Tenn.

Group IV—Atlantic City, N. J.; Asheville, N. C.; and New Rochelle, N. Y.

Group V—White Plains, N. Y.; Perth Amboy and Kearney, N. J.

Debt No Yardstick.

Rosina Mohaupt of the Detroit bureau of governmental research, author of the survey, warned that "it is dangerous to conclude that a city with a low per capita debt is more efficiently and economically managed than one with a higher debt burden."

"Sometimes economy is enforced by legal and economic restrictions over which the local officials have no control," the economic expert declared. "Sometimes high debt is incurred to provide facilities which, it is hoped, will attract a larger population with a lower per capita debt burden resulting in the future. The age, the topography, the tradition of essential services and many other factors have so much effect that comparisons between cities are not only invidious, but dangerous."

Miss Mohaupt listed three reasons for the decline of municipal debt generally. They were: Decline in the rate of growth of large cities with consequent reduced need for large capital improvements, federal public works programs, and the recent stress on economy budgets in which expensive capital costs are postponed in favor of more pressing necessities.

Disease Hits Elms Throughout State

Thousands of Trees Are Reported Infested

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 12—Since the summer of 1933 when the Dutch elm disease was discovered in New Jersey, on Staten Island, and in Westchester county, thousands of other diseased trees have been found.

Most of them are in New Jersey, southern New York, and south-western Connecticut. Smaller numbers of infested trees have been reported in eastern Pennsylvania and other states. In 1939 two diseased trees were found in Columbia county, N. Y., one in Chenango county, and ten in Broome county.

Including all of the states involved, some 10,000 diseased trees were found in 1939, says Dr. D. S. Welch of the department of plant pathology at Cornell University.

How the disease entered the United States remained obscure at first, but evidence shows that the fungus came on elm-burl logs imported from France and other European countries for use as veneer in the manufacture of furniture, he says. The importation of elm logs is now prohibited by a federal quarantine.

The annual figures for New York state have been as follows:

Year	Number of Diseased Trees
1934	2,504
1935	2,258
1936	1,723
1937	1,264
1938	1,312
1939	1,209

After 1934 in New York state, says Dr. Welch, the number of diseased trees decreased each year through 1937. The decrease amounted to about 50 per cent in the three years. In 1938 there was a reduction from 1,264 to 1,227 in the area previously invaded but the discovery of 85 infested trees in Dutchess county raised the total above that of the previous year.

Valuable Shade Tree

The American elm, according to the Cornell scientist, is without doubt the most valuable shade and ornamental tree in the United States. Many cities and towns are noted for the beauty of their elms, and no one can estimate their value to the communities.

The question then is raised: Should the American elm be planted any more? Where it is the most logical tree to use, it may still be planted, if facilities are provided for protection, says Dr. Welch.

Facts on the Dutch elm disease and its control, the progress made to date, and pictures of diseased wood and elm bark beetles, are given in the new Cornell bulletin E-457. Single copies are free to New York state residents who write to the New York state college of agriculture at Ithaca, New York.

Willkie Promises He'll Prosecute

Says One of His First Acts Will Be Attack Upon Campaign Promoters

Colorado Springs, Aug. 12 (P)—Wendell L. Willkie says one of his first acts, if he is elected president, will be to prosecute all persons buying or selling advertising in the Democratic National Committee's 1940 campaign book.

The Republican nominee told a press conference late yesterday that such advertising purchases were not only in violation of the Hatch anti-politics law but also overstepped the corrupt practices act.

In New York, Oliver A. Quayle, Jr., treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, said last night he was "not at all perturbed" over Willkie's warning, and added, "his observations are covered by the promise: 'If I am elected, I will do so and so.' I don't think he stands a chance."

F. D. R.'s Son Visits Willkie's warning that "all violations" of the Hatch or corrupt practices acts "will be relentlessly prosecuted," came shortly before a joint press conference with former President Herbert Hoover and a wish of "good luck" from Elliott Roosevelt, the President's son.

During the press conference Willkie was advised that Mr. Roosevelt's son was in his hotel, and he picked up a telephone. The nominee promptly received an acceptance to his invitation that the President's son come for a visit and the two men and their wives chatted for half an hour.

As the younger Roosevelt left, Willkie expressed the hope that he would have a pleasant vacation on his projected trout-fishing jaunt to Wyoming.

"Thanks, I wish you good luck," Elliott responded.

Another Democrat to see Willkie was John Jones, brother of Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones. John Jones, a resident of Houston, Texas, said he would like to talk with the Republican nominee today.

Little Change in Stocks Last Week

Prices Are Within Narrow Limits on Small Volume During the Week

Prices on the New York Stock Exchange generally continued to move within narrow limits the past week as uncertainty regarding the future course of events still prevailed. There was some improvement toward the close of the week which gave the Dow-Jones industrials a net gain of .63 point for the week, closing at 126.99. Rails and utilities showed slight losses from the close of the preceding Saturday, the former having a net loss of 10 point for the week, closing at 26.86 and utilities losing 22, to close at 22.60. Total transactions for the entire week were but a little over a million and a half shares, just a fair amount of business for a single day.

With good reason, apparently, the people whose business is finance find little to cheer them in their contemplation of the course of the war and estimates of conditions which are likely to prevail if and when it reaches a conclusion of some sort. One observer remarks that the sentiment ranges from cautious to pessimistic.

Tax considerations, having their roots in conditions brought about by the war undoubtedly do much to check investment tendencies. Closely allied is the subject of amortization of plants being built or to be built as part of the huge scheme of rearmament and defense. Thus Secretary Stimson is quoted as saying that of 4,000 airplanes for which appropriations have been made contracts actually have been let for 33. Reason given is that business men are hesitating to build new plants which may remain a charge against capital and earnings long after there is no necessity for their existence. Speedy action by congress upon this question would do much to remove at least one cloud upon the horizon of business.

The excess profits question, another deterrent to business, appears to be coming closer to clarification. The measure which has been approved by the House and means sub-committee, while giving to the government much of the increases in corporate profits still would give industry a chance to make some money. It is not yet a law, however, and doubtless will be much changed before passage.

Despite the fact that war has cut off foreign supplies International Paper announces that its two-and-a-half year old price of $50 a ton for newsprint will be extended through the rest of 1940 and the first quarter of 1941.

Start of vacations is expected to drop steel output rate at Pittsburgh six points this week, to 80 1/2 per cent of capacity.

According to the magazine, Steel, 15 to 20 per cent of the present steel production in the United States is being exported. Upon war developments will depend the length of time this proportion will continue.

Textile production in the U. S. for the first half of 1940 was six per cent above the first half of 1939, according to the Textile World's index. It is said that as a result of the national defense program production for 1940 may reach a new high record.

F.D.R. Makes Appeal

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP)—New York's young Democrats face the fall campaign with a fresh appeal from President Roosevelt to "adhere to the true principles of a liberal democracy." "There will always be two parties in this country," the president said in a message to the week-end state convention at Utica. "Their names may change but the issues between them are definite. Inevitably the struggle must be between the forces of liberalism and the forces of reaction. That struggle will be as long as selfishness finds a place in the human heart."

War

War news today received the principal blame for a general stock market stalemate. Forenoon efforts toward recovery were short-lived. While dealings were slow throughout, minor declines were in the majority the greater part of the session. Near the final hour selected issues did better. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 300,000 shares.

Intensification of the air battle over England led Wall street to believe the crisis was at hand and, pending more assurances the British would be able to beat off the invasion, brokers found most speculative forces inclined to stand aside.

The fact offerings were never urgent was encouraging to bullish contingents still buoyed by hopes huge armament spending eventually would touch off a business upsurge. Bonds and commodities exhibited mild irregularity. Stocks lacking much support included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, United Aircraft, General Electric, International Paper Preferred, Anaconda, Texas Corp. and Southern Railway.

Resistant in a sluggish curb were Electric Bond & Share, Republic Aviation and United Gas. Aluminum of America dipped.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP)—Walter L. Farley, 57, veteran yachtsman, member of a pioneer Rochester family, and Eastman Kodak superintendent died last night, two days after he was stricken with pneumonia. Mr. Farley was taken ill while on a business trip to Chicago last Thursday and returned to Rochester in serious condition. By Saturday morning, pneumonia had set in. He was superintendent of Kodak's finished film department.

Ickes Says Bird Season Extended An Extra 15 Days

Migratory Birds Show an Increase; Hunting Day Also Lengthened; Zones Listed

Washington, Aug. 12 (P)—Secretary Ickes announced today that the hunting season for ducks, geese, coot and jacksnipe had been extended to 60 days this year from the 45-day limit of last season.

Announcing the annual regulations for shooting migratory waterfowl, the secretary said that the extension was made possible by an increase in numbers of these birds.

The regulations also lengthened the hunting day. Shooting may start at sunrise and continue until 4 p. m. for waterfowl and coot. Last year the hours were 7 a. m. to 4 p. m. Jacksnipe may be hunted from sunrise to sunset.

The big limit on ducks remains at 10 a day. Shorter seasons were provided, however, for woodcock, and the bag limit on geese was reduced from 4 to 3 a day.

Shooting season on ducks, geese, coots and jacksnipe follow:

Northern Zone
The northern zone comprises Maine, New Hampshire, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana. South Dakota and Wyoming were the intermediate zone last year.

The intermediate zone includes Vermont, formerly in the northern zone, and New Mexico, formerly in the southern zone, the following other states: Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Idaho, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon and Washington.

The southern zone is made up of Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas and Arizona.

Bag Is Limited

As in previous years, the number of waterfowl that may be possessed at any time is limited to two days' bag but a new rule makes it possible to possess the legal limit for 20 days after the close of the season instead of 10 days.

The bag of canvassbacks, redheads, buffleheads and ruddy ducks is limited to 3 a day, of any one of these species. The regulations also provide that not more than 3 of this entire group may be taken in one day. The possession limit on these birds also is double the daily bag limit.

The bag limit on coots is 25 a day and on jacksnipes 15 a day, with possession limited to not exceed the daily bag limit.

Closed seasons throughout the United States and Alaska are continued on wood ducks. Ross's geese, and swans. There is also no open season on snow geese and brants in Florida and states north thereof that border on the Atlantic coast.

Hunters may use bows and arrows or shotguns not larger than ten gauge. The three-shell limit on repeating guns is continued. Use of bait or live decoys also is forbidden.

All persons over 16 years old hunting migratory waterfowl are required to have federal migratory hunting stamps.

The woodcock season was reduced from 30 days to 15 days with a daily bag limit of 4 and possession limit of 8. Ickes said excessively cold weather on the woodcock wintering grounds in the south last winter caused losses of young birds, and therefore the birds were not as plentiful this year.

Amalgamated and Local Factory Reach Agreement

The agreement between F. Jacobson & Sons and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America has been renewed for another year, according to Mrs. Mabel L. Fisher, business agent for local No. 186.

Although there have been rumors that the agreement involved important changes in working conditions at the factory Mrs. Fisher stated this morning that there was nothing of special importance in the transaction. She said that there was some change in the system of pressing, but otherwise referred to go into details regarding the contract renewal or what was involved.

At the Jacobson factory it was stated that all arrangements had been made by the New York office and that they had nothing to say.

His Last 15 Cents

Chicago, Aug. 12 (P)—Joseph Clifton Miller, 16-year-old McCarr, Ky., youth, spent his last 15 cents to see his first movie, but he says he isn't sorry he did it. He appealed to police last night for a place to sleep, explaining that he had to spend by last money, but I sure have wanted to see a movie for a long, long time." He told Sgt. Dominick Rice that he had hitch-hiked to Chicago from McCarr to find his aunt.

Barber Becomes Human

Sour-Pickle Jar on Bet

Some people try to eat more eggs than anyone else at one sitting. Others want to drink the most cups of coffee. There are a few who go out to win pie eating contests. There aren't many known cases of anyone trying to become a human sour-pickle jar. But recently Franjo Brinkner, a popular Yugoslavian barber, did just that.

The other day, when his shop was full of customers and the kidding waxed fast and furious someone began twitting Franjo about his fondness for the pickled cucumbers.

Franjo admitted that he does have an abnormal fondness for pickles. "I'll bet you a hundred dinars," said one of the customers, "that you can't eat a gallon at one sitting."

Franjo's razor stopped in mid-air. He began to take off his apron. "You're not kidding? You'll really bet?" Franjo asked.

The customer said he surely did mean it.

"Done," cried Franjo, "bring on your pickles," and he sat down in the most comfortable chair, a happy look on his face.

So a gallon jar was brought at a nearby shop and Franjo went to work. Someone got a tally sheet and began checking them off as Franjo downed each one with great relish. When 100 had vanished, eyes began to pop. And when the second hundred had slid down Franjo's voracious gullet, there was a worried silence, but he still hadn't reached the bottom of the jar.

Everyone was leaning forward, fascinated at such prowess. Would Franjo make it? Once or twice he seemed to stop. Finally the barber captured the last one in the jar. It went the way of the rest. The score-keeper whistled in amazement. Franjo had won.

Girl Harpist Studying To Be Plane Mechanic

SYRACUSE.—Unable to find employment in the music world, Miss Jessie Elinor Walizer, 25-year-old harpist, is taking lessons to become an airport "grease monkey."

Miss Walizer, who says she is "crazy about tinkering with motors," first discovered her mechanical inclinations when the 13-year-old family car broke down. Lacking funds for the necessary repairs, she overhauled the motor herself.

She is now taking a course in aviation mechanics under a scholarship extended by the civil aeronautics authority.

State Farm Income
Up Three Per cent

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 12—Total income of United States farmers in 1939 was nine and eight-tenths billion dollars according to the bureau of agricultural economics, United States Department of Agriculture.

This was four per cent larger than in 1938, but eight per cent less than in 1937. Total New York farm income was 347 million dollars, a gain of three per cent over 1938.

Government payments (included in the total income figures) amounted to 807 million dollars for the country as a whole. They were equal to nine per cent of the income received from the regular farming operations. Government payments in 1939 were almost twice as high as in 1938, the figures show.

Government payments varied among the states, according to Dr. George E. Brandow, extension economist at Cornell. In New York state, for every $100 received by farmers from regular farming operations, government payments amounted to one dollar. In North Dakota for every $100 received by farmers from regular farming operations, government payments amounted to $25.

Equivalent government payments were $11 in Iowa, $19 in Alabama, and $21 in Texas, he says. Government payments were highest in the areas where wheat, cotton, corn and other acreage-allotment crops predominate.

Breakfast Variety
Toasted raisin or cinnamon bread breaks up the usual breakfast toast monotony—serve plain or spread with butter. If you have leftover cinnamon rolls, cut them into thin slices and toast. Serve with forks as they may be sticky. The youngsters will usually go for these.

Moose Collection

Ellenville, Aug. 12—Proud owner of the finest collection of big game trophies in this area is Floyd Ackerley, 47 North Main street.

Decorating walls of his business place are heads of moose and caribou which he bagged in Canada and deer and bear shot in Ulster county.

"The best head I've got is this big moose. It has a rack of 65-inch horns and was the record hit of 1930 in the Province of Quebec," said Mr. Ackerley as he discussed his collection with a Freeman scribe yesterday. "This fellow weighed just under 1,800 pounds on the hoof. Brought him down with a 30-06, using a 220-grain soft-nosed bullet."

The prize moose yielded over 200 pounds of steak and the rest of the carcass—after the gigantic head and neck had been removed—was left for the Swamp Cree Indians of that region who brought the meat to their settlement on dog sled.

Another handsome specimen is a moose head whose antlers have a 58-inch spread. It was brought down on the Canadian Gaspe Peninsula in 1936 and was the tallest moose of the four which have been taken since 1924 by the Ellenville hunter. He said that after the animal had been killed, a tape measure showed that the big fellow measured nine and one-half feet from tips of front hooves to end of horns.

The other two moose heads have horns which measure about 50 inches. One was bagged near North River in 1929, the other in Upper Ottawa in 1931.

Probably the most beautiful of all heads in his possession is that of a caribou brought down on the Gaspe Peninsula in 1936. The regal bearing of the head, crowned by its unusually interesting antlers, is one of the outstanding characteristics of the big animal which reigns above Canadian timberline.

The head and hide of a black bear which weighed about 250 pounds is another feature of his collection. The bear was brought down at Peckamoose, in northern Ulster, by Mr. Ackerley and his brother, Archie, who are said to have fired simultaneously. Deadly marksmen both, Mr. Bear put up no argument about yielding his ghost, after stopping the double volley.

A rattlesnake hide which was given to Ackerley by a friend and a stuffed owl shot not far from Ellenville complete the impressive display.

Among hunting partners in Canadian woods with Mr. Acker-

Ellenville's Famed Military Band

Ellenville, Aug. 12—Strike up the band! Here it comes! Drums rattle, tubas blare, crowds cheer, automobile horns beep!

The pride of Ellenville—Clayton's Military Band—is swinging down Main street. Dazzling red and yellow trimmings set off dark blue coats and caps and light blue trousers. A strutting drum major swings his baton. He wears a black shako and scarlet uniform. The sun flashes gold and silver here and there as it is reflected from shiny instruments.

But today's snappy Clayton band is only the modern counterpart of a colorful organization which has marched through the last 55 years of Ellenville's history to add dash and music to parades, lawn parties and various civic demonstrations for generations.

Directed by Harry J. Smith, a Napanoch guard, the band delights enthusiastic listeners at a concert each Thursday evening at Liberty Square. Under Mr. Smith's leadership, the outfit today carries high the torch of tradition it has inherited from veterans of years ago. Modest and unassuming, Director Smith gives all credit to "the boys" for wide acclaim which the organization has received in parades in Ellenville and neighboring cities and towns in recent years.

The Clayton Military Band is a living symbol of years long past when townsfolk of most communities struck out their chests and boasted about "our band." And each Thursday, time turns back its flight as Ellenville residents go to the town square to hear melodies popular long ago—tunes that will never die.

But the Clayton band can "get hot," too, and play zippy modern airs in the manner of jitterbug idols who favor "swing."

Organized originally about 1885 by Thomas Clayton, for whom the band was named, the outfit early captivated the fancy of Ellenville. Although records are scanty, consensus is that a Clayton band has been active here since it was first formed just before the Gay Nineties.

J. F. Wolf, tuba player who has been with the band for over 20 years, has three sons and a nephew in the organization today. They are: Drum Major George Wolf, 22; George Wolf, 29, trumpet; Matthew, 19, Sousaphone, and nephew, Kenneth, 27, trumpet.

Two Boobys: Harold and William; two Grants: Thomas and Charles are other families associated with the band.

Isaac Startup, former drum major, put the band through its paces for 35 consecutive years. Stephen Mance, trap drummer, was in the organization for many years after it was organized by Mr. Clayton. George Reichert is now playing his 35th year.

The band will go to Boston with the George D. Cook Post No. 111, to attend the National American Legion Convention late in September.

President of the band is Weston Ruth, manager is Robert Wolf.

'Sudden Death' Win

Ligonier, Pa., Aug. 12 (AP)—Clarence Starks scored in 45 seconds of an extra "sudden death" period to give the Fairfield Club of Wichita, Kan., a 918 triumph over Meadowbrook Club of Long Island, N. Y., in the allied relief benefit polo tournament finals yesterday.

An appetizing salad or sandwich and a tall glass of cold milk or buttermilk provide a luncheon that will appease the most heat-conscious or heat-irritated appetite.

Use Chlorates in Control of Weeds

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 12—Of all the various chemicals used, the chlorates are the most effective and practical for controlling most types of weeds, says Professor W. C. Muenscher of the botany department at Cornell.

Since chlorates are rather expensive for use on large areas, they may be more widely used in controlling weeds on driveways, roadsides, and tennis courts, and for the eradication of noxious weeds on local areas or in small patches, he points out.

Of the three general methods of application, probably the most common is to dissolve the chlorates in water and to spray the solution of the weeds. Another method is to spray a dilute solution on lawns to kill shallow-rooted weeds. A third way, effective on certain perennial weeds, is to scatter the dry sodium chlorate over the ground in late autumn before the soil freezes.

Special precautions are necessary to avoid a fire hazard connected with the use of sodium chlorate sprays, Professor Muenscher says. Great care should be taken not to spill this substance where it may come in contact with inflammable material in or near buildings.

Other precautions, and information about the control of weeds with Chlorates, are given in Cornell bulletin E-432. Single copies, free to New York residents, may be had from the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, New York.

'Baker of Beverwyck' Delights Audience

The Vagabonds, college students who are presenting dramatizations of the Hudson valley, made Marlborough one of their stops Saturday afternoon to present "The Baker of Beverwyck" before a group of members and friends of the Ulster County Historical Society, on the grounds of their new home, Bever House.

This group of young people, numbering not more than 15, who are traveling up and down the Hudson valley, have taken stories of the land's history and have woven them into delightful and entertaining plays, which, with simple but effective stage sets are creating favorable impressions wherever they are presented.

"The Baker of Beverwyck" is the story of Jochem Wessels and his wife, Gertrude, who were chosen because Wessels' name appeared more often in the court records of Beverwyck, now the city of Albany. His quarrels with Jan van Hoesen and his wife, Volckgen, would be bakers, provide rich material for the clever dialogues.

The bent over, little old man, Captain William Juraens, who falls into the clutches of the van Hoesens, but who is a tricky little old fellow, had not a word to say throughout the play, but conveyed his meanings through clever pantomime. A group of Indians who came to purchase sweet buns from Jochem, a saucy but attractive Dutch girl, Styntgen and three pompous magistrates in stiff white collars and peaked black

Dutch hats completed the cast. Not only did the group search dusty records to make the action and the dialogue authentic, but they also studied the costumes of the periods and made them authentic as well, a fact which is too often overlooked by amateurs. The stage sets consisted of two scenes, the exteriors of the two rival bake houses and the interior of the magistrates court. A narrator described the events leading up to the play and also provided descriptive music on her accordion.

After the play the audience inspected the new home of the society and tea was served on the lawn.

Keep the Lovely Bust of Youth

How will your figure look five or ten years from now? Quite early little signs may develop. The woman whose bust has started to sag and get large may be sure she'll have that "pouter pigeon" look, appear a dowager long before she is one.

Weak pectoral muscles are the cause of a shapeless bosom—whether it be over-large or flat. To lift your bust to give it youthful curves and form, take strengthening exercises.

This exercise is excellent for firming the pectoral muscles. 1—Lie on back, with arms stretched out to side. 2—Raise shoulders and chest, keeping arms on floor. Take weight off back of head and raise chin upward. 3—Lower chest and shoulders to mat. Repeat 5 times, rest, and do 10 times in all.

Or do you have other signs of a middle-aged figure—large hips, a double chin, a dowager's hump?

Our 32-page booklet helps you analyze your figure problems, describes and illustrates exercises to beautify hips, legs, shoulders, bust, arms, waistline, posture. Includes exercises to relieve tense nerves, correct foot troubles and constipation; also has a daily routine to benefit the entire body.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of "BEST EXERCISES FOR HEALTH AND BEAUTY" to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

ding of Miss Isabel Juhl and Merl Rouse. Mr. Rattray was best man and Mrs. Rattray was matron of honor. Mr. Rouse is vice president of the Inter-Ocean Re-insurance Co.

The Misses Jane and Ethel Maisterstock have returned home after their two weeks' stay in Bermuda. The trip to the island was made by the Bermuda Clipper. They returned home on the steamer President Roosevelt.

TURNING THOUGHTS TO CONVALESCENCE REMOVES MOST OF THE DISCOMFORTURE OF A HOSPITAL STAY

Emily Post Compliments Patient-To-Be for the Optimistic Outlook

The spirit of optimism cheerfulness that is so clearly evident in the following letter sets an example that may, it seems to me, be helpful to many who look forward to a hospital sojourn of their own with thoughts of fear and dread. That the thoughts of this patient-to-be should skip the immediate prospects and focus on the tranquility of convalescence sets an example that is doubly appealing to sympathy.

In her letter she says: "I expect to go to the hospital soon, and probably will be laid up for many weeks. I have been thinking about the letters of thanks I shall be expected to write to friends while I am convalescing, and I have been wondering whether I must dictate these and have some one write my name per her initials, or whether these notes can be written by some one for me, and signed in her own name, in order to answer sooner than may otherwise be possible?"

My answer is that you will probably do both. At first, your nurse or a member of your family, or a very intimate friend whom you are allowed to see will write notes for you—in their own names. Later you can dictate your own notes, and later on, perhaps, you may want to write for yourself.

Their Time Off

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I are employed by a family that means to be good to us but is as it always happens, very thoughtful. We are supposed to be free after dinner, which is served in the evening during the week, and at noon on Sundays. We think this is very generous on the family's part, except that it never works out like that. They always have their coffee at the table, after which they sit at the table and talk and talk, so that we can't get finished any evening early enough to go anywhere except to a late movie. Then, too the afternoon is always over by the time we finish our work on Sundays. My husband thinks it would be all right if, after they have finished their coffee, we cleared the table and finished our work. But I don't think we can clear the table under their noses this way. We would certainly appreciate it if you would help us.

Answer: I think the best thing to do is to go to your employers and explain your situation, and ask if they mind whether you arranged to do your work another way.

George L. Kerbert Resigns His Post as Saugerties Mayor

Saugerties, Aug. 12.—George L. Kerbert, who has been mayor of this village for four years, handed his resignation to the village board at a meeting Friday night, it was announced Saturday.

Members of the board said that the resignation was not immediately expected and came as a surprise although it was later learned that Mr. Kerbert had been advised by his physician to lessen his activities.

Mr. Kerbert served as a member of the village board for 12 years and was named mayor four years ago. His resignation becomes effective August 31. He became a member of the board to succeed the late Dr. Thomas F. O'Dea and succeeded Myron Bedell as mayor.

Novelist Lewis Maps Out Work Like Scientist

That "how do they do it?" angle stirs as much public interest in professional people as any product of their creative minds and Americans particularly never seem to get their fill of what goes on behind the scenes.

This type of interest is now current locally since the arrival of Sinclair Lewis, noted novelist, at Woodstock a week ago, and although most people who are able to read a line are familiar with his writings, not so many know the man and how he works.

As a novelist, Mr. Lewis, has won about all there is to get in recognition for his work and within two years he has gained some extra notice as an actor. Thursday night he will appear in "Shadow and Substance" at Robert Elwyn's Playhouse and he has been rehearsing diligently for his part in that play.

The intensity of the man, however, is perhaps best felt in his writings, and it is as such the public likes to know how he functions, since there is no stage where he turns out his novels.

A novel, to this author, consists of real persons in action in a very definite setting and perhaps this accounts for his interest in the stage.

Before writing a line he marshals all the characters he is going to need. He makes himself familiar with them to call them by their first names and nicknames. Then to sharpen the focus, he draws detailed maps of the section of the country in which they live, with its hills, rivers, railroads and other geographical points.

After this is done and he is able to see his characters, he sets them into their proper environment and lets them live their own lives.

Mr. Lewis is conscientious in his work both as a writer and an actor. He believes that anything undertaken should be done well, and to that purpose a person should give all he has. His method in writing is almost scientific, since he arrives at every conclusion through profound study and understanding.

This perhaps comes of the fact that he wanted to become a professional scholar in his youth. He begins work on a story in much the same way as a scholar attacks a problem in historical research.

Vincent Sheehan, himself an impeccable writer, once said of Sinclair Lewis: "He is the only writer I have ever known, who knew exactly what every word meant before he used it. Whether it be classical English or the slang of the Middle West, he is sure of it before he puts it down."

The first name of this author has been lost somewhere behind his fame. Before his success he was known as Harry Sinclair Lewis and his intimates call him, Hal. He was born in 1885 in Sauk Center, Minn. He came of thoroughly Yankee stock, and his father, Dr. E. J. Lewis, had once been a school-teacher who demanded precision and accuracy in language.

Lewis was a thin, nervous boy, distinguished only by his intense interest in reading, his study of Greek and his decision to go east to school rather than to attend the University of Minnesota.

At Yale, which received him in 1903, he was branded as "Red" both because of the color of his hair and his unorthodox, radical ideas. After graduation he passed through a series of minor editorial jobs finally signing up with George H. Doran Co. as advertising manager. His first novel was published in 1914 and others came in subsequent years without much noticeable success until he produced "Main Street" in 1920.

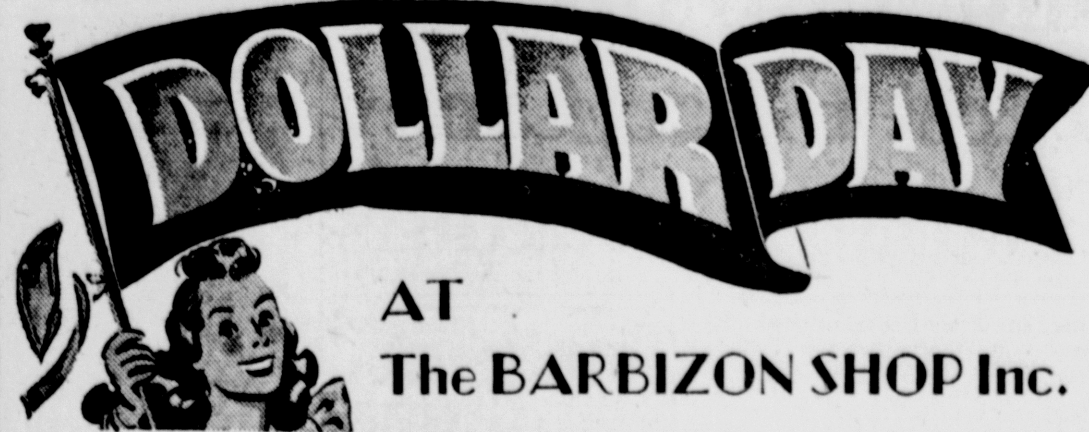

This book became the talk of the nation as did several others which followed including "Babbalanza," written in England and Italy and published in 1922. It is the classic portrait of the American business man and its title has become part of the language with dictionary sanction. "Arrowsmith" published in 1925, was written after painstaking research. In 1926 as a protest against restrictive terms of the award, Lewis refused the Pulitzer Prize offered him for this book.

No novelist has been more on the job after a first best seller and others came year after year, this list including "Mantrap," "Elmer Gantry," "The Man Knew Coolidge," "Dodsworth," "Ann Vickers," "Work of Art," "It Can't Happen Here" and the "Prodigal Parents."

He is ready now to start another work in the fall and there is every reason to believe that it will be turned out with the same intensity as the others he has written.

Tigers and Indians Are Tied for First Place; Cincy Drops Two to Cardinals

Bengals-Tribe Meet in 2 Game Series; Cubs Trim Cubs Twice; Giants Divide

(By The Associated Press)

Oscar Vitt was in the happy position of being able to send Bob Feller, the best pitcher in the business, to the mound today as his Cleveland Indians opened an important two-game series against the Detroit Tigers, at Cleveland.

The two clubs fought their way into a tie for the American League lead yesterday, each with 64 wins and 44 losses, and the outcome of their battles today and tomorrow might have a vital bearing on the race. After all, it's getting along in the summer, when pace setters begin to crack.

With Feller firing them across for the Indians and trying to rack up his 20th victory of the year, Manager Del Baker of the Tigers was forced to call upon John Gorsch, his freshman ace, who has won 7 and lost 5. He didn't have a veteran star ready for duty.

Should Feller win today and put the Indians out in front, it would not be surprising to see Vitt begin pitching his boy wonder out of turn and giving him frequent relief assignments in a determined effort to widen his lead and stay in front to the wire.

The Tigers suffered two painful losses to the Chicago White Sox yesterday, each by scores of 4 to 3, to lose the leadership. The Sox knocked ace Buck Newsom from the hill in the first and beat Tommy Bridges in the nightcap, despite homers by Hank Greenberg and Rudy York.

Cleveland gained a full game by splitting with the St. Louis Browns. Al Milnar scored his 15th win as the Indians took the first game, 12 to 4, but the Browns came back to knock Johnny Allen and Al Smith from the hill and capture the second, 7 to 6. Walt Judd hit his 22nd homer of the year for the Browns.

A brilliant youngster and a game veteran waged a thrilling mound duel at Washington, and in the end young Sid Hudson of the Senators beat Lefty Grove of the Red Sox, 2 to 1. Hudson gave five hits and drove across a run to score his 10th victory.

Gordon Hits Homer
The Yankees made it three straight over the Philadelphia Athletics when Joe Gordon slapped a homer into left field stands in the 11th. Atley Donald pitched the last two innings for the Yanks and struck out five batters.

Cincinnati's National League lead was whittled to five games as the champions bowed to the St. Louis Cardinals twice, 3 to 2 and 3 to 1. Mort Cooper set the Reds down with two hits to beat Paul Derringer in the first, and Len Warneke cut them down in the second. Enos Slaughter's two-run homer decided the opener.

Brooklyn gained a game by splitting with the Boston Bees. Bill Posedel, a former teammate, licked the Dodgers, 3 to 2, in the first, but Lefty Vito Tamulis blanked the Bees, 3 to 0, to make it a draw for the day.

Frankie Frisch's amazing Pittsburghers scored twice over the Chicago Cubs, 7 to 3 and 5 to 1, vaulting into fourth place only two games back of the New York Giants. The Pirates have won 10 of their last 11 starts and are red hot. But, they probably have too much ground to make up—some 13½ games.

The Phillies and the Giants broke even at Shibe Park. Kirby Higbe snapped a nine-game losing streak for the Phils when he beat the Giants, 2 to 0, in the opener. Hal Schumacher then pitched an equally artistic victory for the Giants, 8 to 2, as he set the Phils down with three hits.

Youngster Wins 'Soap Box' Derby, College Education

Tommy Fisher of Detroit Sets Record for Meet in 26.68 Seconds; Others Close

Akron, O., Aug. 12 (AP).—A happy 12-year-old with a pug nose and plenty of teeth in his smile is bound for a free college education today by virtue of winning the annual all-American "soap box" derby.

He is Tommy Fisher of Detroit, son of a salesman of machinist supplies. Robert Londeree of Charleston, W. Va., and George Smith of Akron were the other finalists from preliminary heats contested Sunday by 130 racers sponsored by newspapers throughout the United States, Canada and Panama.

They flashed nose and nose down a 1,031-foot concrete runway lined by 50,000 spectators. There was less than a third of a length between first and last cars. Londeree was second and Smith third. Fisher set a new record for the meet at 26.68 seconds.

Tommy went back to win an international race over Terry Stewart of Colon, Panama, and Donald McGown of Belleville, Ont. The Chevrolet Motor Co., co-sponsor of the meet, awarded Fisher a four-year scholarship and Londeree and Smith received new automobiles.

In preliminary contests: Heat No. 2—Won by Raymond J. Hudachek of Iowa City, Iowa; second, Ian Weber of White Plains, N. Y.; third, John C. Gaggis of Manchester, N. H. Time 26.73 seconds.

Heat No. 7—Won by John D. Young of Indianapolis, Ind.; second, Paul S. Rustwick of Sioux City, Iowa; third, Richard Stangman of Mamaroneck, N. Y. Time 26.95 seconds.

Copake Falls Wednesday and Detroit Clowns on Friday; Gruner and Bush Ready

Six straight wins and still seeking to extend it, Carl Husta's Kingston Receptions have two tough assignments on the docket this week. Wednesday the Rees play Copake Falls and on Friday the famous Detroit Clowns. Both games will be played at the stadium.

The Rees will run into some classy twirling no matter who starts for the Copake Falls club of the Mid-Hudson League Wednesday night. Copake's hurling corps of two lefties and a right-hand flinger includes some of the best semi-pro moundsmen in the region.

"Lefty" Carl Fusco, veteran southpaw, is the standout and is well known in the mid-Hudson district. Fusco twirled for Big Bill Shay's Newburgh Receptions and gained a reputation by beating Poughkeepsie every time out.

Fusco stopped the Dahmen under the light in Copake Friday night by 7 to 3, scattering nine hits in effective style. He is the probable starter against the Hustamens. Joe Bokena, former Washington Senator, held the House of David in check last week to win, 13 to 6. Bokena is a right-hander and has plenty of stuff.

The youngster on the Falls' staff is Bill Schools, scholastic sensation in Columbia county. Schools, one of the most promising boxmen in these parts, is a left-hander with a great flare for strikeouts.

Copake Falls has a well-rounded aggregation that is making a serious bid for second-half honors in the mid-Hudson circuit. The infield has Teetle Blass, a good hitter, at first base; the well-known Vin Crawford at second; McDarby, a Connecticut ace at the hot corner; and Sid Scott, short.

Sio, leftfielder and Cantro, centerfielder, respectively are the best hitters on the club. Porter plays the rightfield position. Fulcrum, the catcher is a Nutmeg state veteran. He played against Kingston several years ago with the Canaan, Conn., tossers and is one of the ablest receivers in semi-pro ball.

With their streak on the spot again in this game, Carl Husta's Receptions may see Al Gruner on the hill. Gruner made his debut at the stadium when he relieved Charlie Neff. Despite a shaky time, Gruner won the game against the famous Royal Giants.

Providing his finger is healed, Bob Bush will get the assignment Friday night against the Detroit Clowns. Bob was expected to hurt against Brooklyn last week but at game time his finger was swollen to keep him on the bench.

Wins Three Races

Chester, Pa., Aug. 12 (AP).—Charles D. Strang, 19-year-old Long Beach, N. Y., youth, won three amateur races in the annual Delaware river outdoor motorboat championships yesterday. He won in Class B, C and F. He finished second in the Class A competition.

Officers of both the British and American navies have seen porpoises easily swimming ahead of the prows of fast-moving destroyers. Those destroyers were going upwards of 40 miles an hour, yet the porpoises were evidently just fooling around as they kept ahead of the speed of the boats.

Americans in 1939 smoked 172,000,000,000 cigarettes, 5,311,000,000 cigars and used 38,000,000 pounds of snuff.

to notice this shift in diamonds and make changes in their own schedules accordingly.

Brooklyn's Fitzsimmons Is Still Winning Games

Ex-Giant Flinger Has Now Reached 200 Wins; Fred's Night on August 16

During the last few days quite a bit of attention has been devoted to some of the best ball players in the major leagues today. There's been Bill Terry and his Giants, Max West, Mike Dejan, Bill Nicholson and Al Milnar.

Another pitcher is on the reviewing stand today. On in years now but still one of the games' best showmen. He's Fat Freddie Fitzsimmons, former New York Giant and now a hired hand with Leo Durocher's Brooklyn Dodgers.

Along in 1937 Bill Terry had a very smooth-working pitching staff of three great hurlers—Carl Owen Hubbell, Prince Hal Schumacher and our topic—Fred Fitzsimmons. During that season Freddie was traded across the river to the Flatbush club. What he's done for the Flatbush gang is surely worth mentioning.

A few weeks ago Fitzsimmons chalked up his 200th win of his career. Now he's won 202 and still moving along at a fast clip at the age of 39. Freddie never grumbles when he's turned loose on another club. The former Giant, when not hurling for the Brooks, takes a turn at coaching along the base lines with Manager Durocher.

Bad Debut

In his last season for the Terry-men Fitz won 10 games. Then came the deal. The Giants had to see Fitz depart for another pastured but that's the life for a major league star. In Brooklyn Fitzsimmons didn't have a very good debut. He finished the season with a record of six wins and ten defeats. That didn't make the Polo Grounders unhappy.

Before Fitz returned to winning form again he pondered with the idea of becoming a full-time coach. But he soon reconsidered and made himself realize that he still had a lot of wins in his big right arm.

Fitzsimmons kept plugging this season until he copped his 200th win. On June 7 the Dodgers rammed themselves into first place by defeating the Reds, 4 to 2 in 11 innings. The next afternoon Durocher called on Fitz to make the hold on first a little more secure. It was just one of those unlucky days. Freddie was bombarded early and the Crosley Field representatives walked off with a 23 to 2 triumph. But that didn't stop the ambitious Fitzsimmons who was still after his 200th.

Then came the eventful afternoon against Frankie Frisch's Pirates. Fitz achieved his long-cherished goal by chalking up a win, allowing the Bucs only four hits. Brooklyn players and fans went crazy. They think a lot of old Fitz, a pitcher who has surely helped the boys from Ebbets Field.

Losses, Still Popular.

Last Sunday afternoon at Ebbets Field Fitzsimmons was tagged against the Chicago Cubs. The Bruins were really hot in this series. Before Freddie could get warm on the mound the Hartnett men socked him into the cooling showers. As he stalked to the clubhouse the 29,000 fans yelled for Fitz—they still thought a lot of the knuckleball artist.

Again Fitz came back. In the "Mel Ott" celebration at the Polo Grounds last Wednesday Freddie came back, this time in a new uniform to plague the Terry-men. A grand crowd was in the stands—to honor Bill Terry's great rightfielder—Mel Ott. Well, Fitz won the game even though he didn't finish it. Not only Freddie returned to haunt his ex-mates but Gus Mancuso, the old-time Giant received. It was quite a time that night at Coogan's Bluff.

Freddie started his baseball career with Muskegon in 1920 where he won three and lost nine. In 1922 he went on to Indianapolis. After winning 14 games in 1925 he came to the Polo Grounds. His best winning season for the Terry-men was in 1928 when he won 20 and lost 9.

Another token for Fitzsimmons came this year when he was

Rosenstein Hurls Four-Hit Victory; Pittsfield Pros Score 4 to 2 Win Sunday

Behind the four-hit hurling of "Lefty" Rosenstein the Saugerties A. C. defeated the Sing Sing Prison team Saturday afternoon by the score of 2 to 1. Saugerties scored two runs in the second while the inmates tallied a run in the fifth.

Saugerties, with Francello leading the attack, collected nine hits off Ryan. Both Ryan and Rosenstein hooked up in a beautiful pitching duel with the young left-hander coming through mainly on his 13 strikeouts.

The prisoners held the powerful New York Police team to a 1-1 tie. They also trimmed the Castleton Ferns by 11 to 2. Rosenstein was the fifth hurler to go the distance against the inmates this year.

Sunday's Game
Eddie Wallace, star right-hander of the A. C. club took a 4 to 2 defeat Sunday afternoon at the hands of the faststepping Pittsfield Pros. The game was played at Cantine Memorial Field.
Scoring one run in the first, the Bay State team led all the way and stopped Wallace's winning streak at four straight. Sheldon, the 16-year-old Pittsfield flinger, kept Saugerties in check for the entire game. Wallace kept himself in trouble by walking nine. He fanned six. Wednesday evening either Wallace or Rosenstein will hurl against Copake Falls who will play in Kingston later at 8:45 o'clock. The Saugerties game is scheduled for 6:15 o'clock.

Turnesa Takes Vermont Open

Mike Won Crown on Last 18 Holes for 281

Burlington, Vt., Aug. 12 (AP).—Mike Turnesa, who represents golf's famous family at the Fairview Country Club in Westchester, N. Y., today had a well-earned $500, the fruits of his comeback victory in the inaugural Vermont open golf championship at Burlington Country Club.

Turnesa, who all but blew his chances with a three-over par 74 in the third round, came back with an even par on the last eighteen for 281 to cap a one-stroke victory from Jack Petroni, of Manchester. Petroni, who saw the championship slip from his grasp as he fozzled two putts on the last three greens, collected $300 in second money.

At Laurinburg (N. C.) the other day, two negro ball teams broke up the game to chase a rabbit which charged on the field. Finally a center fielder snagged the hare with his glove and his side was declared the winner.

Eight Colts Set For 15th Historic Hambletonian

Spencer Scott Will Be Favored; Bostwick's Kuno Also Rated as Challenger

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP).—

Until a dozen or so owners of speedy three-year-old trotters decide to risk $500 more on the chance of winning something over $20,000, there's no telling what will happen in the 15th Hambletonian stakes Wednesday.

The final payment is due tomorrow. Then the owners and trainers will have to decide whether their colts have enough chance to add that $500 to the $460 they already have in the pot. The way things look now, there are at least eight pretty sure starters and a half dozen others may go.

It's considered the widest-open Hambletonian since Lord Jim won back in 1934. And that might be a good hunch for the bettors, for one of the possible starters is Lord Jim's son, Gentleman Jim, owned by John F. Davis of Toledo and driven by H. M. (Doc) Parsfall, who not only piloted Lord Jim to victory but won again last year with Peter Astra.

The uncertainty of the race and the opportunity of seeing America's finest harness horses battling for a $45,000 pot are two big attractions which will bring 45,000 or more people to this village of 2,300 Wednesday. The other lure is that Goshen itself and the county fair atmosphere of the town's annual big day.

The scene won't be quite the same this year at Bill Cane's triangular track at the edge of town. There's a big tote board in the infield and mutual windows under the stands taking the place of the auction pool sellers and the bookmakers. There's a starting gate which has done away with "scoring" and a camera for close finishes. But the striped refreshment tents and the shirt-sleeved spectators from the country were old Hambletonian 10 was foaled will be there as usual.

Spencer Scott, a rangy colt owned by C. W. Phellis of Greenwich, Conn., and driven by Fred Egan, probably will be the favorite. Dunbar Bostwick's Kuno, 1939 two-year-old champion; Milestone, owned by Joseph A. Neville of Delaware, O., and Earl's Moody Guy, from the Lexington, Ky., stable of Earl F. Shropshire, are rated almost as good.
Today's feature for the opening day of the week of grand circuit racing is the appearance of Grey-Simonites, 3b. 4 1 1 0 2 0 in Francello, ss. 3 1 3 2 0 0 in Benjamin, c. 4 0 0 13 0 1 in Swart, cf. 3 0 1 1 0 1 in Rosenstein, p. 3 0 1 0 4 0

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Aug. 12 (AP).—Greetings, folks, just pull up a chair and let's see what's going on. . . . Guess you noticed Mike Jacobs hasn't bought the Dodgers yet—and if you think he will, you've got a bet right here. . . . Lots of talk around town about another famous tennis family ready to crack up. (That's tantalizing, we know, but you'll get the names the minute one of them buys a ticket for Reno. . . . Our Brooks still are in the punching, but from this perch it looks like Deacon Bill McKee's lads by at least ten games. (Remember that one. . . . Down in North Carolina, where your agent has been loafing, they'll give you a prize if you can prove that the best bass fishing in the country isn't to be found in their famous Currituck Sound.

Idle Thought

To us it makes not rhyme or reason Why the Phils should end the season.

Promoted Downwards

What'll you bet Buddy Lewis isn't managing one of the Washington farm clubs next season? . . . When Alice Marble, the tennis star, lunches with newspaper men (and other guys) she is chaperoned by her coach, Eleanor Tennant. All very pleasant, but it runs up the check boys. . . . Little Appalachian College down in North Carolina is so keen to sneak up on North Carolina U. in the football opener, they worked out all last winter in the snow. . . . International League President Frank Shaughnessy, a retired major in the Canadian army, offered his services in the current goings-on, but was turned down. . . . Old, they said. . . . Rice is making goo-goo eyes at Ike Gill 200 pounds of trouble, who lost a decision to the Academics at Duke.

Moore Held for Grand Jury; Jornsby Dawson Is in Hospital

gro Farmhand Waives Examination; Arrested After Slashing at Broadway Place

Verrett R. Moore, 35, a negro farmhand of New Paltz, waived examination in police court today and was held to await the action of the grand jury when he was arraigned before Judge Matthew Cahill on a charge of second degree assault on slashing at Broadway, with a knife on day afternoon.

Judge Cahill informed Moore that he would be fixed at the city house. Jornsby Dawson is in the Kingston Hospital. He is very weak from loss of blood from his wounds, is expected to recover, the police said today.

The attack he cut Dawson in the arm.

The wounds in Dawson's left arm bled profusely as he staggered out of the house in the rear of the Orpheum Theatre onto Broadway where he was seen and the police called.

Lieutenant Stoudt and Sergeant Martin in one of the radio cars drove out Abel street when they learned that Moore was seen driving out that way. As they were passing the barn which set well back from the road, Sergeant Martin observed steam arising from the radiator of an auto in the rear of the barn and a negro filling the radiator tank with water from a pail.

The two officers stopped and walked down to the barn where they found Moore who had blood on his clothing. Moore at first said that the blood was from a pig he had butchered the day before.

The officers took him back to police headquarters where the police say he related the story of the affray.

Lancastria Goes Down With 2,823

Nazi Gunner Tells Of Laying Mines

war but since parachutists are not active just now he is going along at night after night as a gunner aboard a Nazi minelaying plane.

"I take off my hat to those men who regularly risk their lives on the unspectacular and rather thankless job of nocturnal aerial minelaying," said Rechenberg, returning to Berlin after his fifth flight to England within a week.

He is on furlough now in order to be with his newly-born daughter, his third child.

"A bomber has the satisfaction of seeing an explosion under him and of having pursuit planes which accompany the bomber bear witness to his success," Rechenberg said. "The minelayer can only tell by his instruments whether the mine fell straight and whether he threw it off exactly where it was ordered."

Matter of Surmise

"Afterward, he can only surmise that this or that ship of whose destruction he heads hit his particular mine."

"Yet these flights, as I know from personal experience, are even more dangerous than those of bombers."

"If a bomber gets caught in concentrated searchlights, or if enemy planes make things hot for him, he can nevertheless drop his bombs somewhere and do some damage, after which his plane is much lighter and faster."

"A mine thrower, in such circumstances, must lug his heavy mine home again and have the further disappointment that the flight is not counted to his credit for awards, decorations or promotions."

Minelaying by plane is far more effective than by ship, Rechenberg believes, because a plane can approach closer to an enemy shore and penetrate deeper into bays and estuaries than can a ship.

"The mere fact that the enemy knows we have been in a certain place greatly slows down navigation," he asserted, "for convoys of ships halt until minesweepers go over the area."

"It is even worse for the enemy if he knows in a general way that we have been over for a visit. Uncertainty as to where new mines may lay acts decidedly as a brake on the flow of goods in convoys of ships."

Scientific navigation is one of the prime essentials for minelaying success, he said.

Among the troubles of a minelaying plane, he added, is the balloon barrage.

"I've pecked at many balloons during my flights, for those pesky things finish you if you happen to run into them."

"We keep the sharpest lookout for them and shoot them down the moment they are sighted."

Why Would a Man Want to Be President?

By RAY PEACOCK

AP Feature Service Writer
The mere fact that there's only one living ex-President should be enough to scare anybody off. And even if it weren't, a most casual peek at the life span of our Presidents, particularly since Buchanan's time would indicate that their days are numbered. From George Washington down through Calvin Coolidge, Presidents have lived for an average of 13 years after they were inaugurated. On the surface, that might make their life span seem quite long, because their average age when taking office was about 55. However, the life expectancy of any man at 55 is about 17 years, or some four years more than the Presidents lived after that age. The job is a man-killer. Three Presidents—Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley—were assassinated. Harrison, Taylor and Harding died in office.

Average Was 57½
Not a very cheerful prospect? It becomes less so as time goes on. Our earlier Presidents were older on the average at inauguration than those who came later, yet lived longer after taking office.

Up to 1860, the average age of Presidents when they took office was about 57½, and they lived an average of 16 years thereafter. Since then, down through Coolidge, their average age at inauguration was only 52, yet they lived an average of only 10½ years thereafter. The latter period, however, includes all three assassinations.

Only two Presidents since the war between the states, measured from the dates they took office, exceeded their then life expectations. They were Cleveland and Taft. There were nine Presidents before the Civil war who had done so, including six of the first eight. They were John Adams, Jefferson, Madison, John Quincy Adams, Jackson, Van Buren, Tyler, Fillmore and Buchanan.

One Cheering Thought
The conclusions, obviously, do not apply to isolated individuals, but are good only as averages or groups. Out of them comes one cheering thought for defeated presidential candidates. Apparently they live longer beyond election years than do the victors!

Squanders More Than His Fortune in Minutes

"A fool and his money are soon parted," runs an old proverb, and Lazzio Manzak, 21, a clerk in a Budapest hardware store, earning only 25 pengoes, ($4.25) a week, is convinced that truer words were never spoken.

Manzak inherited 14,000 pengoes from a long lost uncle. This was an immense fortune for the poor clerk, who couldn't hope to see that much money if he lived to be a hundred. So he started to celebrate. Among some of the things he did was to drive off in a car standing on the road. He had never driven a car, but was a car fiend. His escapade proved expensive when he was later arrested and the court sentenced him to pay 15,240 pengoes damages. This was exactly 1,240 more than he had inherited. And now he scripps and saves thinking of the sensible use he might have made of the legacy.

A new home diversion is made possible now by a machine which combines a device for making records at home with a radio and a phonograph. People are recording the voices of their children, members of the family and friends. Some are even starting libraries of home records.
